No Stand After Three-Hour Debate

Council Deadlock on Mountain

By FRANK LaPIERRE

An hours-long debate on whether the City Council of Daly City should take a stand on development of San Bruno Mountain ended in a surprise deadlock Monday.

Only four councilmen attended the session, held before an audience of some 200 persons at the City Hall council chambers.

Councilman Paul Hupf was absent.

AFTER SOME THREE hours of debate, offered by proponents and opponents of plans to develop a community of 18,000 on the Crocker Hills area, adjacent to the main hulk of the 3,300 acre mountain, two councilmen voted to take action on the issue.

Tte two council members who voted against the issue — Mayor Victor Kyriakis and Councilman McRobert Stewart — said they felt the matter was being thoroughly researched by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors, which has scheduled public hearings on the controversy.

Last fall, the County Planning Commission voted 3-2 in favor of Visitacion Associates' development and passed it on to the board.

Meanwhile, petitions were circulated in and around Daly City by members of a new organization called the "United Residents of Daly City" asking the council to take a stand on the mountain — either pro or con.

Monday, City Manager David Rowe said a survey of the petitions conducted by the city clerk's office disclosed that of the 4,135 signatures contained on the petitions 2,416 were not registered voters in the city; 491 lived outside the city; 107 were illegible signatures; and, the remainder were registered voters.

Conrad Pavellas, of 62 Theta Ave., Daly City, coordinator for the URDC petitions, told the council he did not put much stock in Rowe's comments on the signature breakdowns, "because from the outset we said this was a public opinion poll."

SPEAKER AFTER SPEAKER reiterated either their opposition to the development or their support for it, much the same as had been done during some 26 hours of testimony before the County Planning Commission last fall.

Marie Adams, a board member of the Southern Hills Homeowners Association, said she opposed the development.

Harold Caulder, of Crocker Hills area, said he felt the development "would be a mistake."

Jim Cranna, of 572 Atlantic Ave., a member lc61.1..Richard of the Jefferson Elementary School District Board of Trustees and Hillside Homeowners Association, said "a poll of our membership showed the association opposed (the development)."

Ernest Pazzola, of the Original Daly City Protective Association, voiced his opposition on behalf of the ODCPA.

Rchard Van Coy, a circulator of the petition, said he wants the issue put before voters of Daly City in the form of a referendum.

A Skyline College student, Tony Tarantino, said the student body at Skyline had indicated they strongly opposed the development.

Jefferson Union High School District Trustee Al Teglia, a candidate in the upcoming Daly City council race, said he supported the petition opposing development.

He took the same stand during a meeting with Pavellas last week — opposition to both annexation and/or development along with incumbent City Councilman Tony Giammona.

GIAMMONA WAS endorsed, according to Pavellas, not for his stand on the mountain (Giammona has suggested he would be receptive to annexation of the mountain only if the lucrative Crocker Industrial Park were included in the deal), but for his consistent stand opposing redevelopment of residential area.

Mike Mirada, a Daly City resident, said he had worked in the shadow of the mountain for many years and "it is good for nothing . . . the weather is no good for a park.

"This city has a right to grow; this is not Russia," Mirada said. "Those people against San Bruno Mountain (development) don't know what they are talking about."

Bogus Bills Recovered Here in Eight Arrests

Daly City police in recent days have arrested eight persons on separate occasions and recovered some $160 in bogus $20 bills in the city.

The counterfeit bills are being passed in supermarkets, dimly-lit bars, fast-food chain stores and liquor stores, police say.

Latest arrest came Monday afternoon at McDonald's Restaurant in Daly City when two men and a woman allegedly gave a bogus bill to an attendant in exchange for some food.

Arrested and charged with counterfeiting was Danny C. Searle, 21; Robert J. Crowley, 31; and Susan M. Hodge, 23, all of San Francisco.

"The bills are good. It's hard to tell them from the real thing, unless you look real close," Police Lt. Tom Culley said.

Here's what to look for, experts say:

The color is faded and the paper feels unlike real money.

There are no "strings" in the paper when you hold it up to the light, as found in real money.

The numbers as shown in the photograph (L 21686831 B) Series 1969 C, and signed by George P. Schultz, secretary of the treasurey, all are the same.

Man Held In Slaying Of Coed

A 32-year-old unemployed transient is expected to be arraigned in North San Mateo County Municipal Court today for the knife slaying of an 18-year-old Pacifica coed.

Hussain Richardson, 32, was living out of his car near the scene of the murder, police said.

He once lived in Pacifica, had moved away for a time, and recently returned to the coastside community.

The body of partially nude Veronica Anne Cascio was found Thursday morning in a creek at Sharp Park Golf Course by 16-year-old David Litman.

According to Coroner's Office Investigator Steve Hortin, the victim had been stabbed 30 times in the chest, neck and abdomen.

Police said Miss Cascio apparently did not know Richardson.

She was on her way to a friend's birthday party in San Bruno from her home at 296 Seaside Drive. When she failed to arrive, worried friends began a search and then called police, it was learned.

Capt. Tony Guardino, in charge of the case, said Miss Cascio was last seen alive waiting for a bus to take her to San Bruno about 6:10 p.m.

DC Police Assist in Area Narcotics Sweep

A three-city narcotics sweep by 12 different law enforcement agencies Monday netted nine suspects and some three pounds of heroin valued at $165,000.

The raid was carried out in San Bruno, San Francisco and Hayward by agents of the State Narcotics Bureau, San Bruno, Daly City, San Francisco, Brisbane and Hayward police departments, county and federal narcotic bureaus.

Officers first raided a home in Hayward about 6 p.m. that was followed by raids on a house in San Francisco and another in San Bruno.

At 6:55 p.m., officers armed with a search warrant raided a house at 191 Allen Drive, San Bruno, and arrested three men and a woman on a variety of narcotics charges.

Agents said some two ounces of heroin were confiscated, along with two handguns, inside the San Bruno home.

The bulk of the illegal drugs allegedly was found in Hayward, where officers said raw heroin and cocaine along with some marijuana and six guns, were picked up.

Street sale value of the drugs was estimated by agents at more than $165,000.

It was learned that Daly City Det. John Kirby was acting on an anonymous tip that led to the cache of drugs.

Arrested in San Bruno was Terry Lee Greenfield, Chris L. Phelps, Floyd E. Warren and his wife, Janice.

All were arrested inside the Allen Street residence, police said.

Greenfield, Phelps and Mrs. Warren were charged with possession of heroin, possession of marijuana and being in a place where drugs are used.

Floyd Warren also was charged with possession of a firearm by an addict, police said.

Also arrested in the Hayward raid were: Ronald Salazar, 35, of Hayward, Billy Guevara, 27, San Francisco, Rudolph Anduja, 44, Hayward, and Mabel McNeil, Hayward.

Jacqueline Valdelomar, 26, was arrested in San Francisco.

Elderly Couple Tied Up, Robbed

An elderly Daly City couple was bound and gagged and their home ransacked by two men armed with a straight edged razor Friday night.

The terrorized couple, Adele and Roy Borgenson, of Northhaven Avenue, was inside the St. Francis Heights home shortly before 11 p.m. Friday when the two men forced their way into the house and threatened them with a straight-edged razor.

Mrs. Borgenson was tied with a dog leash and her husband was bound with his belt before the two men systematically went through the house searching for loot.

Stolen was a television set, women's jewelry and other miscellaneous items, police said.

County Constituent Nights Tried

Involving People a Tough Job

By DUANE SANDUL
ANALYSIS

County Supervisor John M. Ward, who stunned political observers in 1974 when he unseated Robert B. St. Clair, has fulfilled his campaign promise to conduct constituent nights in every city in the county.

His observation: "County government is pretty obscure. Most people, because they live in cities, relate to municipal government."

Ward last year became the first supervisor to conduct informal meetings in every community, inviting citizens to meet with him. The meetings were an hour before the city's scheduled council meeting.

He said that state and federal elected officials had advised him not to expect much of a turnout. In most instances, they were correct.

In his 19 stops, the biggest turnout was 25 in Brisbane; the smallest was one in Atherton. The average was about 10.

Ward, who was elected vice-chairman of the board last week, wants to renew the effort this year — but he wants public suggestions on how to improve his accessibility.

He has some ideas of his own:

- Conduct scheduled phone-ins, so that people may relay their problems or ask their questions without leaving their homes.
- Seek invitations to several of the homeowners' associations in county cities.
- Seek invitations to coffee hours in private homes.
- Try again to meet the public in each city, but combine some of the smaller city meetings.

The experience also sparked Ward to suggest that the supervisors devise a way to mail questionnaires or newsletters to taxpayers.

"We don't have franking privileges like Congress or state legislators," Ward noted. "I think the board of supervisors ought to have a more adequate budget for newsletters and/or questionnaires."

Emphasizing that he was simply proposing the idea, Ward suggested that board-initiated mailings "could piggyback mailings with things such as tax bills."

However, the supervisor said it is more important for the board to authorize spending so that each supervisor can hire an administrative assistant.

Ward noted that he launched the constituent nights "because it's my belief that supervisors must be more visible and available. I wanted the opportunity to get around the county rather than to get locked in Redwood City (the government seat)."

He added, "I'd like the people to suggest better ways of how I can be accessible. Special interest groups can always get hold of you. I'm after the citizen who doesn't go to meetings."

The largest turnout at Brisbane was the result of plans for development of San Bruno Mountain, Ward explained.

But by and large, those who attended the sessions had individual complaints on topics such as traffic signals and developments.

"I was amazed at the small number of people who came to see me complaining about assessments and taxes," Ward said. "I don't know why. Maybe it was because the board cut the county budget by 25½ cents."

Ward also theorized that attendance was low because "There were not issues in every city which the county has a voice in."

He also said that he has a 24-hour phone number listed in the phone book.

"I guess people just are not used to county supervisors having constituent nights," Ward said.

Yet, he pledges to continue his drive to change that conception.

Fears of Water Rate Hike Cited

There were fears in Daly City today that San Francisco soon might hike its water rates to the county's second largest city — perhaps by as much as 15 per cent.

The Hetchy Hetchy water system, owned by San Francisco, supplies much of Daly City's water. Other water is pumped from wells owned by the city.

Under an injunction issued by the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of California, it is not possible for San Francisco to discriminate in its water rate charges.

In other words, if San Francisco users get a 15 per cent increase, Daly City and other users of Hetch Hetchy water can expect a similar increase.

"The recommended rate increase is not intended to do more than fund the water department (of San Francisco) adequately for

ON SCHEDULE

Work progresses on the new $13.2 million secondary wastewater treatment facility at the North San Mateo County Sanitation District plant in Daly City. Homer J. Olsen, Inc., of Union City is prime contractor on the project, slated to be completed in March, 1978. Engineering is being accomplished by Resources Engineering and Management of South San Francisco. Work is about 10 per cent complete and on schedule, according to District Manager David Gehre.

Paintings Stolen

Paintings valued at $4,000 were stolen Monday night from the Food Advisory Service in South San Francisco, a non-profit corporation which supplies low cost food for senior citizens.

The building at 205 Utah Ave. was entered sometime during the night and numerous pieces of artwork were taken, it was discovered early Tuesday.

Police said there was no sign of forced entry and the burglar may have used a key.

All the artwork on display there is sold to make money for the senior citizen food supply.

Police said each painting has an identifying number.

Among the stolen art were two "C-scapes" by Griswald valued at $1,200 each and two paintings of nudes on velvet by Burke Tyree valued at $300 each.

The Tyree nudes were number 2-G-39 and 1-6-36, police said.

Also stolen was a painting by Tyree titled "Makekau" of an old Hawaiian tribesman.

Anyone with information concerning these paintings should contact the police department, Officer Fred Carelli said.

PREPARING FOR DALY CITY CONCERT

Three members of the Westmoor High School Band practice for their concert at the Daly City school's Little Theater at 7:30 p.m., Jan. 20. Vocalist for the program, which will include the Swing Choir, will be Sue Palmer. Left to right are Steve Schoolcraft, Clay Collier and John Steinberg. Selections have been arranged by Schoolcraft and Steinberg, both members of the music theory class. Proceeds will be used to enable the band to compete in a Reno jazz festival March 20 and 27.

the ensuing fiscal year," a report issued by Arthur H. Frye Jr., general manager and chief engineer of the San Francisco Water Department in December, 1975 noted.

The rate would probably come after July 1976, city officials say.

Lack of revenues has forced postponement of urgently needed reconstruction work along the 200 mile stretch of pipeline, dams and holding ponds, the report states.

In Jan., 1975, a revenue requirement study performed by Brown and Caldwell, consulting engineers, for the San Francisco Water Department, resulted in water rate hikes amounting to 17.4 per cent.

At that time, the San Francisco Board of Supervisors recommended that "outside areas," such as Santa Clara and San Mateo, be increased 20.5 per cent and local (San Francisco) users 14.5 per cent.

A lawsuit filed by San Mateo, Alameda and Santa Clara counties brought about the ruling that forced San Francisco to reconsider its rate stand and called the inequities discriminatory.

It had been projected previously that no rate increase would be needed until 1978. However, for a variety of reasons pointed up in the report, the earlier date suggested for the increase is necessary, Frye explained.

What effect this proposal will have on Daly City is not known at this time, City Manager David Rowe said.

He is presently reviewing the report along with Water Department officials, it was learned.

Council

Tom Hunter, president of the San Mateo County Building Trades Council, said the people were being misled into believing the mountain would be chopped up.

There will be no cuts and nobody will be thrown out of their homes, Hunter said.

"Anybody that says they will be (thrown out of their homes) is lying," Hunter said.

He told of the acute shortage of jobs in the county and the bleak future facing unemployed craftsmen here.

"If you aren't working it eats the stomach out of a man. There is nothing that matters if you don't have a job," Hunter said in defending the development.

Visitacion's plans will create much-needed jobs, according to Hunter.

This was later disputed by Legal Aid Society attorney Tom Adams who argued the total jobs created would only be 74 jobs.

ROBERT FOLLETT of Visitacion Associates and Hunter asked the council not to take any action on the issue while it is before the county board of Supervisors.

Follett again laid out plans for his development, pointing out that of the 3,300 acres on the mountain, some 2,600 acres will be left as park and open space "and only 186 acres will be developed."

"If this land is to become a park, someone will have to pay for it," Follett said, indicating the property owners might go to inverse condemnation.

Bruno Council Turns Down Huge Apartment Complex

By RICK SULLIVAN

The San Bruno City Council decided Monday night it would not allow development of a fifth phase to The Place apartment complex on a seven-acre site at the corner of Sneath Lane and Cherry Avenue.

The council by a 3-2 vote voiced its dissatisfaction with the proposed development by refusing to rezone the seven-acre site from administrative research to multiple family.

The council vote overturned a Planning Commission recommendation that the site be rezoned.

The developer of The Place complex had intended to construct 184 apartment units, 48 studios, 96 one-bedroom and 40 two-bedroom.

The developer had indicated it wanted to provide 15 to 20 per cent of its new units as part of a rent subsidy program, if federal funds were to become available to the developer and the city.

Lincoln Associates would have tried to provide low and moderate income housing if its plans were accepted by the federal Housing and Urban Development Department.

In voting against the rezoning, Councilman Gary Mondfrans noted that the proposed addition to The Place complex did not provide adequate parking or sufficient recreation facilities for the new tenants.

"I have received calls from present residents of The Place apartments complaining that the recreation facilities there now are overtaxed," said Mondfrans.

"Our aim in this city is to provide luxury apartments in high-calibre single family areas," Mondfrans said. "The Place apartments cannot be termed high caliber or luxury and I cannot see that the next phase of development is going to be any improvement on the barracks-type development at The Place now."

Denny McLarry, a representative of Lincoln Associates, answered Mondfran's comments in part by stating that the firm had decided to remove one apartment building from the plans to make room for construction of paddle tennis courts.

Councilman Richard chard Griffith, who also opposed the rezoning, remarked: "This city is not desirous of apartments like The Place. I cannot support what I consider to be sub-standard dwellings."

Councilman Tony Governale voted for the rezoning and responded "The Place is one of the few developments in the state that allows for families with a subnormal income to rent units priced from $200 a month.

Supervisors Back Giants

A resolution endorsing the efforts of the city of San Francisco to retain the San Francisco Giants baseball team was unanimously adopted Tuesday by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

The resolution states that the board "recognizes the contribution that major league baseball makes to recreational interests of thousands of citizens and residents of the entire Bay Area and in San Mateo County in particular."

Parking Fine Hike Protested

Monday night's regular session of the City Council of Daly City was adjourned to a second meeting scheduled for Jan. 19 because of the length of the discussion concerning development of San Bruno Mountain

Before adjournment, however, the council heard from Vince Merlo, of the Mission Street Merchants Association, who told them imposition of a $5 parking fine on Mission Street, instead of the recent $2 fee, would be near-fatal to the already depressed business district.

This higher fine, suggested by San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Wilbur R. Johnson, would going to larger shopping centers where parking is free, Merlo warned.

Not only would Daly City suffer, but similar shopping streets throughout the county would be stricken, Merlo said.

The council unanimously voted to draft a letter to the county strongly opposing the raising of parking bails.

In other action Monday the council:

Heard from Richard Thomas, Jr., of Royce Way, Daly City, concerning vandals breaking windows in his home and burglaries committed along the dead-end street.

He asked for additional police patrols between the hours of 7 p.m. and 4 a.m.

Concurring with Thomas was Bud Durham, another resident of Royce Way, who said youths had turned the wooded area at the end of the street into a playground.

Durham charged that shanties had been built alongside the hill near his home and the area was rubbish-strewn.

Plants had also been torn out in the area, Durham said.

Officer Trails, Nabs 2 in SSF

It took him nearly three hours but a South San Francisco police officer finally caught up with two youths believed to have been involved in four separate thefts Monday.

Officer Don Culberson had just completed the police report at each theft site when the juveniles would strike again.

At 4:30 p.m., Culberson received a report of eight cases of ice cream stolen from a Good Times Ice Cream truck at Cypress Avenue and Third Lane.

Just after he completed the report two juveniles struck again at John and Kathy's Restaurant at 205 Linden Avenue where they entered from a back door and stole several purses at 6 p.m.

Culberson was just one step behind them when two youths turned the power off at a house at 437 Third Lane. As the resident left, the youths entered and took a purse.

Culberson received another report a few minutes later of a purse theft at 509 Commercial Ave.

It wasn't until 7:12 p.m. that he turned the corner at Magnolia Avenue and Second street and walked into two youngsters.

He became suspicious when the two youths threw money and credit cards underneath his police car. The officer then recovered stolen property from the earlier incidents.

The two juveniles, ages 14 and 15, and from San Francisco, were arrested on suspicion of theft, police said.

Future Parks Given Boost

The North San Mateo Council of Cities unanimously passed a resolution Thursday night urging the County Board of Supervisors "to utilize every resource available" to purchase "as much usable park space to serve the recreation and open space needs of the North County."

In passing the resolution, the Council of Cities reaffirmed its position of Jan. 2, 1975, urging the supervisors to tap federal, state or local funds to obtain recreation areas "in keeping with the concepts of the Regional Planning Commission and its parks and open space charter amendment as it relates to the master plan of San Bruno Mountain."

The council vote comes just two days after the Assembly Ways and Means Committee passed by a unanimous vote a measure which includes $4 million for state park acquisition on San Bruno Mountain.

Brisbane Mayor Art Montenegro noted Thursday night he had attended the Ways and Means Committee session Tuesday. He reported that there was argument over where on San Bruno Mountain park land could be purchased.

He said, however, there was a consensus that money would be spent for a park "on the mountain in general."

Assemblyman Louis Papan said Tuesday that the state Department of Parks and Recreation had agreed to perform a resource management study of the mountain and to report back to the committee in mid-February.

Papan, a member of the Ways and Means Committee, said the results of the study would help the committee specify in more detail use of the $4 million.

SM COUNTY TO HAVE NEW OPERA COMPANY

Posters and pamphlets will soon be appearing on the Peninsula with a logo that depicts a happy-go-lucky man hanging onto a lamp post. It is not the Alcoholic Prevention Bureau's propaganda, but the new symbol for Street Corner Opera with the famed operatic character Canio, the clown, who sings "Vesti la giubba (on with the play) in Leoncavallo's opera, "I Pagliacci."

This theme is the cornerstone of the newly formed group and the design of San Mateo artist, Fred Lieberman. Auditions will be announced shortly with rehearsals to take place on Mondays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Foster City Recreation Center, 650 Shell Blvd.

"We envision a repertory company of between 35 and 50 singers," Mrs. Evelyn Henderson, artistic director, told me Wednesday. "Our logo will take the seriousness out of opera so that people will understand that the company can perform anywhere."

Mrs. Henderson has been very active in Peninsula musical circles, serving as regular organist for Temple Beth El and Grace Lutheran Church. She was graduated from University of the Pacific with a triple major in music: piano, voice and organ. After touring with the Roger Wagner Chorale, she settled on the Peninsula and became a music coach. As coordinator of the Operalunch programs for the San Mateo County Arts Council, she was their musical accompanist for the past two years.

Spearheaded by Thomas Henderson, Marianne Bahmann and Bette Gay Coffman, all Operalunch performers, the Street Corner Opera Association was incorporated as a non-profit, tax-exempt California corporation. Tom Henderson will serve as president

"Because of restructuring of the musical division of the San Mateo County Arts Council, Operalunch has expanded to involve more people in the planning which frees me to work with this offshoot group. It was necessary to create a whole new entity to maintain an independence and identity. And also to enable us to apply for grants that wouldn't come to us if we were under the Arts Council umbrella," Mrs. Henderson explained.

No one anticipated the popularity and growth of the weekly noon-time opera program that began in 1974 at Sunshine Cottage on Borel Avenue, San Mateo. It expanded to 16 performances in 1975 with an average of 100 persons attending and branched out to include four additional programs at the Burlingame Public Library which many retired people and classes from Foster City and Hillsborough schools attended. One performance at the San Mateo City Recreation Center drew 900 persons.

"Everyone was saying 'this is great, but why can't there be ?' And I know there are many people in this area who have been trained but not worked professionally or are still studying and need someone to push them to do something in public.

"We'll begin with a salon orchestra and expand to as big a musical group as the score calls for. But the initial gala will be a fund-raiser, something to show the community what we can do. A showcase of arias you might say. That should be ready by the early spring.

"One of our goals is to work as many combinations in the county as possible, teaming with dance groups, chamber and orchestra musicians, costumers, set designers and artists. We mean to create a permanent environment and training program for young singers and artists."

As a part of their dedication to community service, Street Corner Opera plans to present free performances in schools and parks, the first of which will be in early June at San Mateo's Central Park, in cooperation with the San Mateo City Recreation and Parks Department and the San Mateo County Arts Council.

A portion of the cost of this production will be underwritten by a grant from the Neighborhood Arts Committee of the Arts Council, Mrs. Gwen (Arthur) Wall, chairperson.

Their first joint effort will be with the San Mateo County Choral Society, directed by Dr. Marietta Tassos, in an early fall production of the operatic twin bill, "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci." The Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "H.M.S. Pinafore," is slated for two weekends in May and Mozart's "The "Impresario" will be on the bill with another short work in the early fall. They'll stage a full production of "Don Giovanni" in 1977.

"Most of all, we want the singers to feel they're part of a growing project. With a repertory company, I can develop continuity and loyalty," she concluded.

An opera guild is being organized by non-performing members of the association. Persons interested in auditioning for chorus or principal roles, backstage activities or membership in the association may contact Mr. or Mrs. Thomas Henderson, P.O. Box 4398, Foster City, 94404.

Soup Stock: Four Bouillon bone or beef knuckles or beef shanks, 3 quarts cold water and one tbl. salt. Simmer slowly 3½ to 4 hrs. Remove bouillon bones or knuckles, strain. Let cool overnight and remove fat yield approximately 2 quarts. ¾ cup diced salt pork, ¾ cup chopped onions, 1 cup shredded cabbage, 2/3 cup chopped leaks, white part only, 1 cup diced carrots, 2/3 cup chopped celery, 1½ cup diced potatoes, 2/3 cup peas, ¾ cups small macaroni broken up, 1½ cups canned tomatoes, 1 cup cooked red kidney beans, 1½ cups grated Parmesan cheese, 2 quarts soup stock, 1 tbl. salt, 1/3 tsp. pepper. Cook salt pork slightly, then add onions, carrots, leeks, celery and cabbage, simmer until soft 5 to 8 minutes. Add soup stock and seasoning, boil 15 to 20 minutes. Add potatoes, cook 10 minutes longer. Add peas and macaroni, cook 20 minutes longer, then add tomatoes and kidney beans, let simmer 20 to 25 minutes. Just before serving add grated cheese, stir over low heat until cheese starts melting.

Separating Good From Bad

By JOHN HORGAN

Marriage is one of those chic subjects, the kind that gets on the cover of Time and Newsweek.

At the best parties, you'll find the fashionable chatting animatedly about the state of this institution.

The general tone seems to be that marriage is on the rocks. It is supposed to be about to perish of terminal boredom and galloping irrelevance.

Over Easy

Who needs marriage when you and 85 other people can live nicely in a commune in the hills of San Bruno?

Divorce has become so commonplace that people shrug when you tell them your loved one has filed papers on you.

A judge in Carson City has gone so far as to institute group divorce.

Reportedly, he can handle as many as 400 cases in about 10 minutes.

Now, that's progress.

It used to be that severing those ties that bound was harder than getting OPEC representatives to agree on the latest boost in the price of oil.

Things are becoming loose all over.

It is no different here in San Mateo County either. In this area, the rate of divorce is high.

Marriage counselors do a booming business.

One of that breed, an Illinois psychiatrist, has been saying that our expectations are all wet.

Marriage is not necessarily going to be something right out of Women's Day or Redbook, he says.

And maybe he's got a point.

Dr. Donald Kerste is the director of a repair service for broken marriages in Des Plaines, Ill.

He is the Midwest's version of Cupid, a mechanic in the fine art of caring.

Dr. Kerste addresses himself to such arcane matters as being able to tell if you are really in love.

According to him, you are in love when the satisfaction and security of another person become as important as your own.

He believes that creative arguing can be constructive.

Much of what the good doctor says makes sense.

Defining love, though, remains a precarious occupation at best. It is like predicting the stock market or playing the horses.

It is an elusive task.

But my good friend, Mo of Millbrae, thinks that she knows what separates the good marriages from the bad.

She is a self-styled suburban expert on this touchy subject and her credentials are pretty sound.

A veteran of eight years of marriage and three children, she has her own theories about how you can tell when your marriage is becoming a little shaky.

Mo says your state of bliss has taken a turn for the worst when:

• The wife announces she wants to see Jaws and invites her mother over for the weekend.

• The husband accuses the wife of being a dog and addresses the family mutt on a first-name basis.

• The dog wags his tail at the wife and bites the husband.

• The husband comes home for dinner and discovers a note taped to the refrigerator which reads: I have become an urban guerrilla. Up the household. Free the South City 10,000.

• The wife comes home for dinner and there is no refrigerator.

• The husband purposely switches the electric blanket's dual controls to freeze the wife's tootsies.

• The wife short-circuits the husband's side of the bed out of spite.

• The husband squeezes the toothpaste from the top.

• The wife squeezes the toothpaste from the bottom — onto the husband's morning cruller.

• The wife finds a strange hair in the front seat of the family heap.

• The husband finds a strange heap in the wife's hair.

• The wife confesses to a yen for Reddy Kilowatt.

• The husband provides the wife with a lifetime subscription to the PG&E newsletter.

• The husband gives up coming home at night for Lent.

• The wife gives up Lent.

• The husband confesses a yen for Reddy Kilowatt.

• The South City 10,000 move in across the street and your property values rise.

Mo says she is probably not infallible on all this. But she's close.

She doesn't have an electric blanket and has never liked Reddy Kilowatt in the first place.

2 Held In Pizza Caper

Foster City police arrested two men early Sunday on charges of robbing a delivery man of his pizza.

Booked at County Jail were Gary Lee Lambert, 20, of San Mateo and Steven Robert Viehwig, 20, of Foster City.

The suspects allegedly ordered a pizza delivered to the front of the Beach Cove apartment complex on Catamaran Street, police said.

When the delivery man arrived at 1:30 a.m. two men approached. One suspect pulled a four-inch knife and ordered the delivery man to hand over the pizza and leave without payment, according to police.

The delivery man complied, but later summoned Foster City police.

Investigators subsequently located the two suspects inside an apartment in the complex and arrested them on charges of armed robbery.

Police confiscated a knife and remnants of a partially eaten pizza while making the arrest.

Jones Challenges Leo

Belmont Mayor Robert A. Jones, who Monday announced his candidacy for the 11th Congressional District campaign, took swipes at the Federal Reserve as well as incumbent Congressman Leo J. Ryan, D-San Mateo.

Jones, in his kickoff address, called for an immediate probe by Congress of the federal reserve, saying, "It is unconscionable for Congress to ignore the responsibility to establish goals for any agency it creates.

"Congress should immediately begin an investigation and appraisal of the goals of the Federal Reserve and the goals of monetary policy," Jones declared, "so that for the first time we can achieve the needed coordination between monetary policy goals and fiscal policy goals."

"I don't propose that Congress should be involved in monetary policy decisions," Jones said. "I am proposing that the Congress should establish goals, especially for an agency entrusted with the responsibility to create money."

The candidate attacked the current $80 billion federal deficit, blaming it on the ignorance of congressmen, whom he characterized as "typically having backgrounds as teachers or lawyers."

"My career as a financial economist specializing in monetary and fiscal policies, I believe, will offer a new input," Jones asserted.

Robert Jones

"which is sorely needed if we are to balance the budget and achieve some coordination between monetary and fiscal policies."

Jones said that the major issue in the coming campaign is one of representation, saying he had tested the political waters rather than investing time and money in a campaign without a reasonable probability of success.

"The incumbent does not listen, he doesn't care," Jones charged, "he's not accesable, partly because he's overseas on junkets."

"He has tried to provide us with some justification for these junkets abroad by stating that he's on the Foreign Relations Committee of the U.S. House of Representatives," Jones conceded, "but we must bear in mind that it is the Senate, not the House, which is responsible for initiating foreign relations legislation."

"If the incumbent was present in his district, as much as he should be, perhaps he would understand why his proposed Southern extension of the Golden Gate National Recreation Area into this county was politically unacceptable," Jones said.

Desperate Search for Housing

By JANET PARKER

A South San Francisco woman and her four children will be on the streets without a place to live if she can't find a house by Thursday.

Mrs. Nora Moreno, in desperation, is turning to this newspaper to help find a home for her family.

Her plight was brought to the attention of the South San Francisco Information and Referral Center in September while she was temporarily residing in a house provided by a relative.

But the relative returned from vacation and Mrs. Moreno and four children were left without a place to live.

"I hope we will be able to find housing through this," said Mrs. Moreno. "It's a last resort. I would hope we can make people aware of the housing shortage in this county."

The family now is residing in Mission Bell Motel, Daly City.

With her family's savings and assistance from the Salvation Army, she was able to pay the motel rent for one week.

But that week will be up Thursday and unless she can find a three-bedroom house for her family by then, they will have no where to live.

The South San Francisco center stayed open Saturday just to await phone calls from persons who might have a house for the Morenos.

Every kind of resource has been used," said Nancy Giles, Information and Referral center employe. "We searched all over the county."

She said the staff is hoping it can get to the "hearts, not the pocketbooks of someone."

Mrs. Moreno receives $185 a month from the county Housing Authority to pay for a three-bedroom house.

Such houses just don't exist on the Peninsula, the center staff members said.

Rents here are on the average higher than other California areas.

Mrs. Moreno is a native of South San Francisco, having resided here 15 years.

She returned to her home town in June, hoping for better luck.

So far, none has developed.

If she leaves the county, staff members said, there could be a delay of several months in transferring her checks for rent.

The big problem, said Miss Giles, is that Mrs. Moreno has four children.

Many landlords don't want to take on four children.

"We're seeing this kind of client more and more," said Jan McNally, Salvation Army volunteer assisting with the case.

In fact, she said, a similar case is developing in San Bruno, where a family with three children faces eviction by court order at the end of January.

They are three months behind in their rent and unable to find another place to live.

"They're just buying time," Miss McNally said.

"Mrs. Moreno is representative of the kind of people who don't get the money needed to pay for some place liveable," Miss McNally said.

Her children, Nick, 10; Dawn, 8; Bobby, 5; and Lisa, nine months, are with her at the motel until Thursday.

The school-age children were attending classes in South San Francisco but recently she's had them out of classes.

Living in the Daly City motel puts them beyond the boundaries for bus transportation.

Ben Ross, the center's assistant social planner and caseworker, said this particular housing case has lasted much monger than most particularly due to the children.

A situation in which first and last months rents are required would be impossible for the family, he said.

The Information and Referral staff is just hoping that someone with a kind heart can make housing available to the family.

South San Francisco's own low-cost public housing is being demolished in the next 90 days to make way for a new low-cost housing project that won't be completed for a year.

The center phone numbers are 873-7580 and 873-0123.

"We're hoping there's a way we can negotiate something," said Miss McNally.

NO PLACE TO LIVE

Mrs. Nora Moreno and her four children will be on the streets if housing is not made available to them by Thursday. The South San Francisco Information and Referral Center is seeking help urgently for the family.

Vandals Defacing SSF's New Buses

By JANET PARKER

South San Francisco's eight city buses are only four months old, but are already targets of vandalism.

The major problem, said Asst. Planner Larry Stueck, is damage to vinyl seats, which have been marked with colored felt pens.

Stueck said the vandalism has occurred in all eight buses and there's little the city can do about it.

"I'm sure there's just a few people doing it," he said. "It's not the majority."

"At the same time, if some children could be caught and punished, it could decrease the amount of future vandalism," said Stueck, who also is the city's transit director.

While the felt pen marks are in themselves destructive, Stueck said the kind of vinyl used on the seats compounds the problem.

It seems that the vinyl seat covers are of a soft, porous material, and the pen markings are quickly absorbed.

Stueck said the city maintenance crew can't find a cleaning solution to erase the felt pen markings.

They've even gone to the bus manufacturer, the now-defunct Fleetwood Co. But they, too, have no special solution that will do the job.

"The only answer is to get it off as soon as it gets on there," said Stueck.

"The longer it stays on there, the more it promotes additional vandalism," the planner said. "Others are drawn into doing the same thing."

It's like graffiti on walls, he said. Once it gets started, it's difficult to stop.

The city crew could go to the South San Francisco schools and warn children of the consequences, but that won't solve the immediate problem, he said.

"What I would like is for people on the buses to protect their buses by reporting any act of vandalism they see occur," he said.

Riders should be aware, Stueck added, that they pay for the buses through tax dollars, just as they pay for their own vehicles.

"If people thought in those terms, maybe we would get more reports," he said.

One drawback to relying on the public to report incidents, he said, is that the public actually is afraid to do so.

Recent actions of San Francisco youths against Muni bus riders in that city have frightened many persons. They are reluctant to report vandals fearing reprisals.

He is considering contracting someone to clean off the marked seats once a week or every other week.

Transportation 'Say' by Public At MP Meeting

By VERN KROGH

A newly formed citizens' committee on mass transportation opened its doors to hear suggestions from the public Thursday night, and an audience of some 100 persons from three counties came forth with many and varied responses.

It was the first of a series of meetings by the Citizens Advisory Committee to the Peninsula Transit Alternative Study and was held in the council chambers at the Menlo Park Civic Center.

San Mateo County residents, some coming from as far north as Burlingame, far outnumbered those from Santa Clara County, and even a delegation appeared from San Francisco to offer the fruits of their past labors to the local committee.

Frank Small of Palo Alto, head of the committee, was chairman, while Alva Johnson, staff liaison representative, and Eric Mohr, project manager of the previous study, were on hand to outline transit planning over the last decade and a half.

Small said study conclusions must be submitted to the state and federal governments by the end of the current year. It will be reviewed at the committee's next meeting at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 5, at the County Government Center in Redwood City.

After that, Small said, an effort will be made to rotate meetings around different parts of the "Peninsula Corridor."

Many of the opinions voiced were in direct conflict with each other.

Dr. Robert J. Stephens, a Menlo Park city councilman and chairman of a committee to study the upgrading of the Southern Pacific commute system, said the railroad, as "one of the most heavily subsidized companies in the state," has "an on-going commitment to the public.

"If they want to get out of the commute business, they should put an equitable amount in state coffers," he argued, maintaining that the company owns close to 2 per cent of the entire state.

Even though the railroad was heavily supported by gifts of public lands during "the robber baron days," it, as a private, profit-making company "no longer is obligated to lose money," replied Maurice H. Kelbolt, a former official of the Illinois Central Railroad and technical advisor with the San Francisco delegation.

Klebolt and Robin Hood, chairman of the San Francisco delegation, pointing to the inaugural speech of San Francisco Mayor George Moscone Thursday, in which he said the commuters will pay, predicted "San Francisco is not going to think highly of a number of people coming into San Francisco by bus."

Citizens, Klebolt asserted, "should be looking into the bureaucratic empire being built here. Pretty soon it will not be local. Pretty soon it will be the state and then the feds.

"If you're not careful," Klebolt warned, "you are going to buy a can of worms, and BART is a can of worms because everything is substandard. Let the pros lead you down the tracks, but for God's sake, keep your eyes open."

Among the suggestions offered last night were:

- That people be encouraged to move closer to their jobs.
- That facilities be provided for unskilled and semi-skilled workers to come to San Mateo and Santa Clara Counties from San Francisco, as well as for white collar workers going in the opposite direction.
- That $100 million allocated for a new Dumbarton Bridge be used for mass transit instead.
- That a BART line be provided from Fremont to San Mateo and Santa Clara Counties across the new bridge.
- That "advocate teams," composed of professionals, each work for a different alternative.
- That the Southern Pacific commute system be extended to Gilroy.
- That provisions be made for "the very young, the senior citizens, the handicapped and the economically disadvantaged," who do not have autos even to reach stations.
- That the offer of Southern Pacific to sell a portion of its commute system to Metropolitan Transportation District be considered seriously.
- That ferries be considered as many of the cities on the Peninsula face the Bay.

New Chairman For Bicentennial

Walter Pettigrew has been appointed chairman pro-tem of the South San Francisco Bicentennial Committee.

The appointment was made after Chairman Terri Mirri and Co-Chairwoman Roberta Teglia announced they will step down from their duties until after the March 2 municipal election.

Mirri, a councilman, is seeking re-election and Mrs. Teglia is seeking election to one of the three council seats.

Mirri said he and Mrs. Teglia intend to return to the committee after the election.

He also said there are two vacancies on the committee and anyone interested in serving should write to him at City Hall.

Good morning, good cooks.

There was a time when salads, especially the molded variety, were considered a nice addition to a meal, but not an important addition. Well, times change, styles change, eating habits change, and we all know that salads are not just an attractive addition but an important source of nutrition. Whether in the form of a tossed salad with its variety of greens and fresh vegetables, or an eye appealing molded salad with vegetables or fruit, salads are a part of our daily menus.

Lettuce, cabbage, spinach and all sorts of greens combine to make the tossed salad. Tomatoes, cucumbers, celery, green beans, kidney beans, in fact most any vegetable adds color, taste and texture. And the final touch is the dressing.

Salad dressings are an easy matter, you may want to buy the prepared variety or the type that you add oil and vinegar or, if you like to make your own, try this one.

FRENCH DRESSING

1 clove garlic (optional)
1 cup vinegar
2 teaspoons dry mustard
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon pepper
2 cups salad oil

If using the garlic, soak the clove in the one cup vinegar a half hour before mixing the dressing. Combine the two teaspoons dry mustard, one tablespoon sugar, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon paprika and one-half teaspoon pepper and mix well. Place in a covered jar or bottle. Remove the garlic from the vinegar and add vinegar to the dry ingredients. Pour in the two cups oil slowly. Place in refrigerator until ready to use. Just before serving, shake vigorously to blend well.

An attractive gelatin mold can induce even unenthusiastic vegetable eaters to eat them with pleasure.

SUNSET SALAD

1 package (3 oz.) lemon gelatin
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups boiling water
1 can (about 9 ounces) crushed pineapple
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup coarsely grated carrots
1/3 cup chopped pecans (optional)

Dissolve the gelatin and one-half teaspoon salt in the one and one-half cups boiling water. Add the can undrained pineapple and one tablespoon lemon juice. Chill until very thick. Then fold in one cup carrots and one-third cup pecans. Pour into individual molds or a 1-quart mold. Chill until firm. Unmold. Garnish with additional pineapple, if desired.

Makes about 3 cups, or 6 side servings.

Acupuncture Topic in DC

"Acupuncture, What It Is Like, Why It Works, and What Can Be Done With It" will be the subject of a lecture by Dr. Stephen Chang, M.D., on Jan. 20, at 7:30 p.m. in the community room of the Serramonte Library, 70 Wembley Dr., Daly City.

The public is invited to attend free of charge.

Dr. Chang, a resident of Daly City, is president of the Chinese Medicine Research Institute and was formerly vice-president of the Chinese Medical Association in Japan.

In November, he lectured at the National Health Federation in San Francisco.

Janie Watson, readers' service librarian, said Dr. Chang's lecture is the first in a series that will inform the residents of the area about matters that are being widely discussed.

DISCUSSING RESERVATIONS

GIRL SCOUTING

SWIMMING for the third Thursday evening in January for Daly City Girl Scouts will be cancelled, since the pool will close in observance of the birthday of Martin Luther King, Jr., Jan. 15.

SCOUT AMERICA '76 planning committee, chaired by Alvin L. (Al) Schwarzbach, will meet Jan. 20, from noon to 2 p.m. at the Girl Scout office in Brisbane.

On the agenda are plans for a review of troop booth and stage assignments by cities. Scout America '75 is a bicentennial celebration of Girl Scouting, scheduled for April 3-4 at the Serramonte Shopping Center.

The event will include active participation by Brownie, Junior, Cadette, Senior and adult Girl Scouts from San Francisco, Pacifica, Daly City-Colma, South San Francisco, San Bruno, Brisbane, Millbrae, Hillsborough and Burlingame.

GIRL SCOUT COOKIES will become available Jan. 16 in the Bay Area. Daly City-Colma Scouts will be selling the cookies for $1.25 per box to finance troop projects and support services.

Varieties will include mint patties, a mint creme covered cookie with chocolate; shortbread, wafer sprinkled with sugar; peanut butter, a patty topped with peanut butter and covered with chocolate; vanilla sandwich, vanilla creme centers; and PB's, a light oatmeal cookie filled with peanut butter creme.

The five types will be offered for sale by local Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts. Troops earn 13 cents per box for their troop treasury for the first 14 boxes per girl sold and 20 cents per box for the 15th and over.

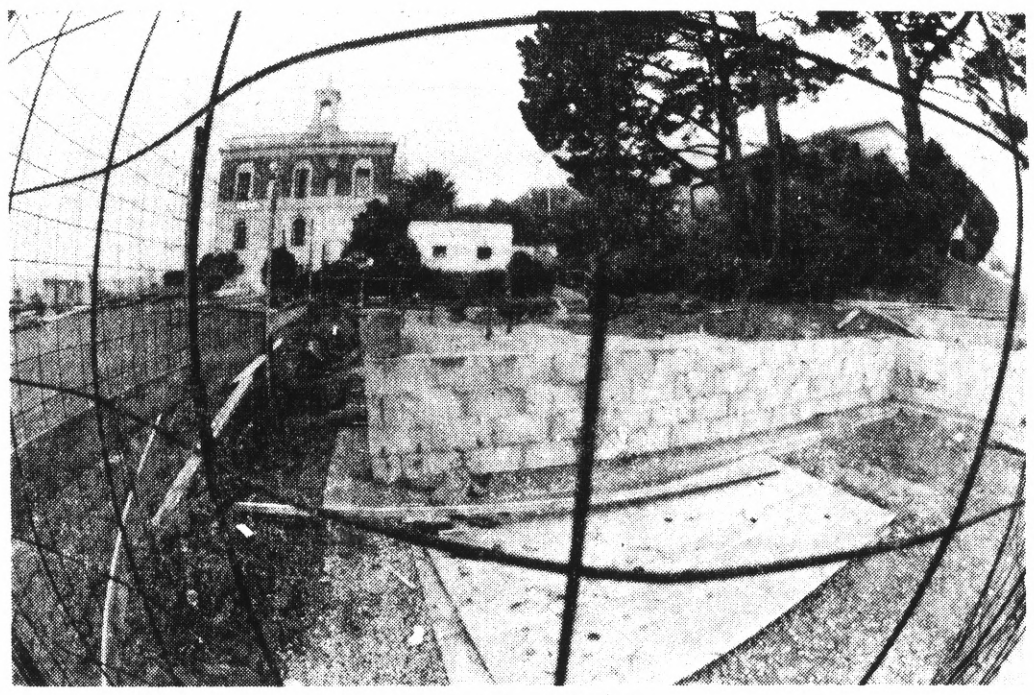
Local chairwoman for the campaign is Mrs. Marilyn Fern, 511 Verducci Drive, Daly City (878-9738) who will coordinate the sales of all Daly City area troops. Mrs. Kathy Skirra (756-2560) will coordinate the cookie booths at local businesses.

Girls will earn a cookie patch for selling 25 or more boxes and a jewel on her patch for each additional 25 boxes sold. Within the local association two troops will win two nights free use of a Council campsite or $25 for the activity of the troop's choice.

SCOUTS SELLING cookies will wear a uniform or a Girl Scout pin, travel with a buddy, not enter homes, smile, and say, "thank you," according to Mrs. Fern.

Cookies will be available until the end of the month but the success of the cookie sale, the main means of financing troop service projects for many troops, also rests with the individual troop adult chairman. Reports are expected to be turned in on time and cookies reshuffled so that all kinds will be available throughout the sale.

The Daly City Girl Scout Association cookie sale chairwoman, Mrs. Fern, is also a volunteer and serves without pay.



A PLACE TO REST
In approximately 45 days, this site near South San Francisco's City Hall will be a convenient rest area for the city's senior citizens and other shoppers. Construction on the rest area by Al Martin Co. recently began and the completed project will include benches and a cover to shelter shoppers from the rain. The cost of the project is $27,455.

Snow Trip Plans Told in Pacifica

The Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department in Pacifica will sponsor its annual Community Center snow trip Feb. 7.

The activity will be held at Bumble Bee Toboggan Area, Strawberry, and is open to boys and girls in the third through eighth grades.

The first 20 youngsters signed up at each community center are guaranteed space.

The boys and girls will be picked up by buses at 5 a.m. and will return to Pacifica at 9 p.m. Deadline for signing up for the snow trip will be Feb. 3, before 5 p.m.

The popular Community Center cartoon carnivals will begin at Ortega School, Jan. 14; Linda Mar, Jan. 15; Crespi, Jan. 16; Oddstad, Jan. 19; Vallemar, Jan. 20; Westview, Jan 21; Pacifica Manor, Jan. 22, and Fairmont, Jan. 23.

The cartoon carnivals will run from 3:45 and 4:45 p.m.

J-Teen drop-in will resume Jan. 16 at Ortega and Sharp Park Schools.

The activity will run from 7 to 9 p.m. Highlights of the evening will be a dance contest and door prizes.

Admission will be free to members and $1.50 for new members. New members are asked to take a 1"x1" picture of themselves for membership cards.

Cub Scouts Win Awards In Daly City

The December meeting of Pack 362 at Vista Mar School in Daly City was highlighted by a visit from Santa Claus.

The boys took gifts of food and toys to be donated to Operation Santa Claus. Gifts were exchanged and refreshments served after everyone participated in a group sing of Christmas Carols.

Awards presented that night included Gene Smith, bear badge; Mark Galli, Chris Trim, Danny Reutlinger, William Woods, Mark McLaughlin, Henry Pequeros, and Reymundo Mallari, bobcat badges; Steven Alt, athlete, Dan Brennan, athlete, geologist, Rodney Silva, geologist, naturalist, outsdoorsman, engineer, athlete; Duffy Aceret, athlete, geologist, naturalist; Dennis Rivera, athlete, geologist, naturalist; Tony Guillory, athlete, geologist, naturalist

Follett Says County In Housing Crisis

San Mateo County is facing a critical housing crisis brought about in large measure by the attitude that growth can and should be halted, according to Robert L. Follett, general manager of Visitacion Associates.

"That attitude must change," says Follett, "if the county is to provide its citizens with the 75,000 new homes and apartments they will need between now and 1990."

Follett, whose company proposes building homes on San Bruno Mountain, said that the county's housing crisis is being felt in two related areas — availability and cost.

"The vacancy rate for housing in San Mateo County — now less than one per cent — may well be the lowest in the nation," said Follett. "This lack of supply has been a major factor in driving up the cost of new housing so that today the average price of new homes, townhouses and condominiums for sale in the county is more than $75,000."

The Crocker Hills proposal, to be decided upon early this year by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors, calls for 7,655 homes and apartments with an average selling price nearly 40 per cent lower than the county average.

Opponents of the project have attempted to justify their position by pointing to a slowdown in the county's growth rate which is now approximately one per cent per year, said Follett.

"They fail to realize two glaring fallacies in these numbers," Follett said.

"First, this meager growth rate is more a result of the lack of housing than a justification. Many of San Mateo County's young people and moderate income families have been forced to move to Santa Clara County — in many cases putting up with long commutes — in order to find housing they can afford.

"Opponents also fail to realize that the growth statistics — which are based on birth rates and migration — are quite different from family formation rates. New families are being formed at three times the growth rate, and more and more of these new families are faced with a move from San Mateo County in order to find housing," Follett said.

'Brain Trauma And Death' Topic Slated

To probe the awesome aspects of "brain trauma and death," a two-day conference of nationally and internationally recognized doctors from Sweden, Great Britain, Canada and the United States will gather at San Francisco State University Jan. 15 and 16, to consider differences between brain vs. "human" death.

Because problems of euthanasia remain a significant challenge to society, this meeting,

Confirmation Class Planning for Journey

Each year the Bureau of Jewish Education administers a Summer in Israel Youth Program, sponsored in cooperation with the Bay Area Congregations, the Jewish Welfare Federation and the American Zionist Youth Foundation.

Many confirmands from the 1976 Beth Israel Judea Confirmation Class are looking forward to this summer's trip. From June 27 until August 10, the young people will be offered a program which will include visiting Jerusalem, two weeks on a Kibbutz, a weekend with an Israeli family and several days at the field school at Ein Gedi.

In honor of the bicentennial, a new Jewish National Fund Forest will be initiated on July 4 at Bet Shemesh outside of Jerusalem. Bay Area teens will plant the first trees in a special section set aside for youth programs.

Fund-raising events have been planned by Beth Israel Judea Confir-Fund-raising to help subsidize the trip.

Sisterhood Sets Panel Discussion

"Marriage vs. Intermarriage," will be the subject of discussion on Jan. 20, at the Sisterhood evening panel to be held at 8 p.m. in Fellowship Hall at Temple Beth Israel Judea.

Guest panelists will be Rabbi Alan Lachtman of Congregation Beth El, Berkeley, and Rabbi Theodore Alexander of Congregation B'nai Emunah, San Francisco. For details call Mrs. Stefi Rudolph, program chairman (755-1374) or Mrs. Mildred Paul (564-1633).

The tickets will be sold between 10 a.m. and noon for $8 per person. The show will be held on February 7 and, as in past years, will be in the Grand Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco. No-host cocktails will be served from 11 a.m. through the fashion show period. The luncheon will be served at noon.

While no reservations will be accepted over the telephone, Mrs. Kelechava, 755-7732, and Mrs. Galliani, 756-6312, will be happy to answer any questions about the show or tickets.

SATURDAY evening a benefit for Friends Outside will be held in the Social Hall of Lakeside Presbyterian Church in San Francisco.

Women of the church will be preparing and serving a roast beef dinner with all the trinnings beginning at 6 p.m. Tickets, costing $5 per adult may be reserved by calling the Friends Outside office, 863-5100.

Noted photographers Charles and Asta Huppe will present their award-winning slide sound presentation entitled "Miracles of Nature."

South San Francisco's Mrs. Rudy Enberg is the executive director of this organization which has been growing by leaps and bounds for the past several years and which has, within the past two months, been forced to move to more spacious offices where the rapidly increasing load of clients can be aided more efficiently.

For more information about Friends Outside call the office number listed above and see how you can help people change life styles.

TICKETS are on sale for the Balboa Alumni vs. the Balboa Varsity basketball game, January 24 at 8 p.m. in the men's gym at City College of San Francisco.

Refreshments, concessions, prizes, music by the high school band, organized rooting sections, yell leaders and song girls, and half time entertainment, will be added attractions according to alumni president Frank Gala of Daly City.

Tickets, costing $1 for adults, 75 cents for alumni members and booster club members, 50 cents for student body members and 75 cents for students without cards. Children under 12 will be admitted free when accompanied by their parents.

Business Fire Inspections Programs Planned for DC

During the month of January, the Daly City Fire Department will be starting a commercial fire prevention inspection program geared to cover all commercial occupancies within the city.

The program is designed to continue indefinitely with inspections scheduled for at least twice each year.

The inspections will be conducted by fire station engine company personnel under the direct guidance of the Fire Prevention Bureau.

The engine companies will be inspecting facilities mainly in their respective districts, and in some cases, in adjoining districts in order to balance work loads between stations.

The objectives of the inspection program ae two-fold.

The first is mainly to assist the owners of commercial property in making the facility safe from fire.

Secondly, it gives fire company personnel the opportunity to become familiar with the interiors of the buildings they inspect.

In the events of a fire, a fire fighter familiar with the interior of the building is at a distinct advantage.

The program started taking shape in July of 1975, when engine company personnel began their training in fire prevention.

Each month thereafter, training sessions were held with all engine company personnel, preparing them for the program.

During the initial inspections, a representative of the Fire Prevention Bureau will accompany the engine company personnel to assist further in their training.

The fire prevention inspection program will initially start in the major shopping centers of the city including Serramonte, Westlake, Skyline Plaza, King Plaza and St. Francis Heights. As these areas are completed, other commercial districts will be scheduled for inspection.

It is estimated that there are approximately 1,000 commercial occupancies within the city.

The Fire Department is planning to complete the initial inspection of all the facilities within four months.

The department will be striving to cooperate with owners and managers of the commercial community in making their facility fire safe.

Samuel Chandler

Alas! The 1975-76 season may go down in history as the year of the death of Western shows and Western movies.

Let them weep in the cowboy heavens. Let the ghosts of Buck Jones and Tom Mix haunt the moguls of the movies and the TV networks, for not one major Western is included among the new shows. What's more, Gunsmoke is gone, Bonanza long ago bit the dust, the High Chapparal, Big Valley, Tombstone Territory have long given way to police shows and re-runs. Not even a Roy Rogers or a Gene Autry are around to warble about their hours on the range and Trigger, the wonder horse, is a stuffed effigy of his former self.

BUT THE MEMORY of the West lingers on. "At last," writes a historian of Western America, "we are able to tell what it was really like for the pioneers and the cowboys." This recalls the words of Kate B. Carter as she spoke of explorers, trappers, hunters, fur traders and missionaries, ". . . we are permitted to glimpse the greatness that was theirs and to learn through their own words the part they played, large or small, in their search for freedom and the building of the great Western commonwealth."

With such a high purpose, revealing the real story of the West, we hasten to recommend Everett Dick's "Tales of the Frontier" which has for a subtitle "From Lewis and Clark to the Last Roundup." Here are over 50 tales about real people, that have been selected and retold under the sponsorship of the University of Nebraska.

The stories are condensations of much longer accounts. However, they are told practically in the words of the person who recorded them for the first time. Every tale is true or at least has been told as true. Every description, however stark, is a portrait of what the original storyteller saw or said he saw. Thus through "Tales of the Frontier" comes the flavor of Indians who came to hate the whites, of mothers longing for the homes they had left, or circuit riders bringing religion to cowboys and miners, of handcart pioneers on the Mormon trail, of sod busters suffering from winter storms and spring thaws.

From the book, the reader learns that "the rain-soaked, weary cowhands" who limped into camp for "an interminable night" were truly brave men, although most of them never faced an outlaw's gun or shot it out in Dodge City or Tombstone.

"TALES OF THE FRONTIER" has been called a "great book or how the West was won." A reviewer in the Utah Historical Quarterly called it highly satisfactory and completely disarming. A writer from Georgia said, "When once the student has sniffed its atmosphere, the 'required' would no longer be necessary."

Teachers Elect Council Heads

Election and installation of officers and board members was held Jan. 6 by the San Mateo County Teachers Association.

Teachers named to head the council of some 25 representatives of each county school district in governing the 2,000 member association are president, Lois Kelm, Hillsborough District; president-elect, Elwyn H. Gregory, San Mateo Union High District; secretary, Carlita Dreblow, and treasurer, Tom Morales, both of Belmont District.

Elected to fill two board positions were Tom Collette, Cabrillo Unified District, and Rae Regli, Woodside District.

Serving on the board with these newly elected members will be Orlan Kallevig and Richard Lucett, San Bruno District, and Rae Regli, Woodside District.

Installing officer for the ceremonies was David Wedeking, Burlingame District, a past president of SMCTA.

SMCTA is presently completing plans for their Twelfth Annual Legislative Breakfast scheduled for Feb. 21 at the Royal Coach hotel.

Chairman Elwyn H. Gregory has invited Congressmen Pete McCloskey and Leo J. Ryan; State Sen. Arlen Gregorio; and State Assemblymen Dixon Arnett, Victor Calvo, Leo T. McCarthy and Louis J. Papan to speak at this annual event.

Discussion will focus on educational legislation currently pending followed by questions from the floor.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the SMCTA office in Millbrae.

Frisbees Catching On Everywhere

By RICK SULLIVAN

Would you believe tossing and catching a Frisbee can be the greatest exercise one can do?

No, you say?

Well, Victor Malefronte and Tom McRann believe it. And little wonder, both are members of the International Frisbee Association, Malefronte being the first person ever to be named World Frisbee Champion Malefront enthused: "Playing with a Frisbee is an ideal way of exercising.

One can exercise almost every muscle in the body. There are 30 different ways to throw a Frisbee and as many ways to catch it. It's the greatest exercise you can do."

Throughout the world, tossing and grabbing the plastic saucer has passed from what some predicted would be no more than an ephemeral popular pastime to a burgeoning competitive force of athletics.

The IFA, based in Southern California, boasts some 100,000 members from all over the world and sponsors many tournaments.

So popular has the sport become, colleges and universities have begun to offer Frisbee playing as part of their physical education curriculum.

High schools too are showing an interest in offering Frisbee classes.

EXPERTISE IN DEMAND
Champion Victor Malefonte

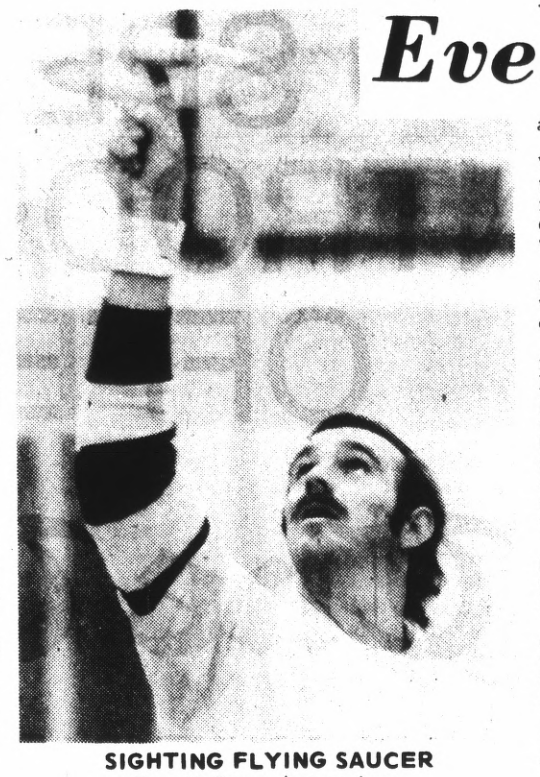
In fact, Joe Dees, director of the physical education department at Mills High School, is organizing a Frisbee intramural class.

It was Dees who invited Malefronte and McRann to the Mills High School gymnasium to demonstrate for students the finer points of sailing the saucer.

While Malefronte and McRann showed off their Frisbee playing prowess, Dees told how he became interested in promoting the sport at Mills.

"For some time I have been noticing the kids playing with the Frisbee at lunchtime, and it looked to me as if the game had a potential for good exercise," Dees said.

"I began to look at Frisbee playing as an alternate form of recreation, not unlike such passive sports as golf and bowling."



SIGHTING FLYING SAUCER
Tom McRann during show

Dees said he wrote the Whammon Corp., innovators of the Frisbee, asking for advice as to how to organize the sport and how to sponsor tournaments.

Oddly, Dees received a response from the IFA, which provided Dees with everything he asked for.

Signups for joining the intramural sport ended Dec. 15. In January, the physical education department will sponsor a Frisbee tournament with three separate divisions: distance throw, distance accuracy and maximum time the Frisbee stays in the air.

Wherever they go, champions of any sort seem to command attention. And Malefronte got his.

At the conclusion of the champ's performance, a throng of young girls surrounded Malefronte, some asking for his autograph.

Malefronte responded to the girls' request with the ease of a veteran athlete ever so used to being asked for a keepsake signature.

It was at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena in August 1974 that Malefronte bettered all other competitors in every tournament category to become the first World Frisbee Champion.

He competed in this year's Rose Bowl tournament and placed third. McRann took fourth place.

But being the first champion of an increasingly popular sport is paying off for the 29-year-old Malefronte. In fact, he considers himself a professional Frisbee player, commanding fees for performances and appearances.

He does television commercials and tours other countries demonstrating his Frisbee playing technique. He would not say how much he earned this year, but did say he expected to earn a salary in "the five figures" next year.

For their performance at Mills High, Malefronte and McRann collected $50 each. The money came out of the student government fund.

Agencies Seek Help

Typists, counselors and friendly visitors are among the volunteers sought by local agancies who have listed their needs with the Volunteer Bureau-Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County.

AMERICAN RED CROSS — Persons willing to help Southeast Asians enrolled in the Vital English Program. Training will begin Tuesday, and volunteers will work on a one-to-one basis for a five-month period. A bi-lingual community meeting for Vietnamese refugees will be offered the second and fourth Fridays of each month from now until May.

VOLUNTEERS IN PROBATION — Assistants interested in obtaining a better understanding of the Probation Department processes and related subjects. Training session will be offered Jan. 27 and 29 at 7 p.m., and Jan. 31 in the morning.

EASTER SEALS — Persons to write and type envelopes, pull cards from the files and check the directory.

APPLE TREE ETCHERS — Volunteers to help organize a British Exhibit for the British Consulate in March. Aides will also welcome the consulate and be included in activities. Apple Tree Etchers have new techniques in etching and promote them through exhibits.

HOMEMAKERS — Someone to act as a community educator talking to community groups on in-home care programs and helping develop a community education program.

PROBATION DEPARTMENT — An employment counselor to interview and arrange employment placement for men and women on probation. After an orientation to the job, the volunteer may work independently.

FRIENDLY VISITING — Volunteers to make regular visits to those in nursing homes, boarding homes and private residences. Concerned people are also needed for the Heart to Heart Line which provides a daily telephone check to individuals requesting the service. The Heart to Heart Line hopes to provide some freedom from anxiety for persons living alone.

Additional information about these and other job opportunities may be obtained by contacting the Volunteer Bureau at 119 Primrose Road, Burlingame. It is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

A project of the Assistance League of San Mateo County, the bureau shares in the United Way of the Bay Area and is funded in part by the county of San Mateo.

Lottery Tells Ballot List

City clerks of North San Mateo County cities have began compiling names of elective office candidates in the order in which they will be listed on the March 2 municipal election ballot.

Secretary of State March Fong Eu drew the order of listing of candidates in state elections.

This is the first time in state history that candidates will be entered on the ballot by random drawings rather than alphabetically.

In the San Bruno City Council race, Edward Kenny will top the list, followed by San Bruno Mayor John Barnard, Douglas Dawkins, Councilman Gary Mondfrans and Anne Robinson.

In the San Bruno City Clerk race, Margaret Kozkowski will be listed first on the ballot, followed by Robert Nybund, Ruth Harris, Helen Perez, Rosa Montes and Terri Rasmussen.

In Millbrae, Frank Cannizzaro will head the list of council candidates, followed by Robert McAdam, Bruce Whitley and Mary Griffin.

In the Pacifica City Council race, Robert Barry Jr. will be first on the ballot. He will be followed by Councilman Aubrey Lumley, Fred Howard, Barbara Pruett, Hugh Miller Jr., Mark Savage, Nick Gust, Virginia Jaegar, Kenneth Taggart and Georgia Ricketts.

In South San Francisco, first on the City Council ballot will be William Borba, followed by William Craib, Emanuele Damonte, Ronald Acosta, Councilman Terry Nirri, Councilman Warren Steinkamp and Roberta Teglia.

In the South San Francisco City Clerk's race, first on the ballot will be Arthur Kealy, followed by City Clerk Arthur Rodondi.

Le Pacini

"We hope UCLA makes us eat our syntax," we said on Dec. 10, after postulating that "UCLA might not be a match for Ohio State."

Thanks, UCLA, for humiliating Woody Hayes, who truly deserves any humiliation anyone can give him, because he has humiliated so many undeserving people.

And now you know why we hardly ever make predictions. In that same column, in which we wondered what Cal might have done to the Buckeyes, we said, "We don't think the Ohio State defense would know what to do if they had more than 10-15 passes thrown in their direction."

OBVIOUSLY, we were right. We just didn't think that the Bruins had a good enough passing game to give Ohio State that kind of trouble. After all, UCLA was a running team (fifth in the nation, with an average of 329 yards per game), but Ohio State had displayed a tough defense against the run.

John Sciarra came in only sixth in passing in the Pac-8, averaging only about 100 yards a game, less than six completions, for a percentage of only 48.4. As a team, UCLA finished seventh in the Pac-8 in passing.

On the other hand, Ohio State had finished eighth in rushing in the nation (316.4 yards per game), their quarterback, Cornelius Greene, was the Big 10's Most Valuable Player, and looked like a somewhat better passer than Sciarra, Ohio State had been the nation's top major college point maker, with an average of 34 points a game and, hell, they had Archie Griffin, with his Heisman Trophy and everything.

WHAT HAPPENED was that Ohio State had an even worse pass defense than we suspected. Sciarra doubled his per-game completion and yards-gained averages (13 for 212 yards), and in hitting for 13 of 19, raised his completion average 20 points, to 68.4. And that was it! Ohio State did knock off about 40 per cent of UCLA's average rushing yards, but that might have been only that UCLA didn't have to run as often as usual.

And then, of course, how were we to know that Woody Hayes would coach such a stupid game? When you're a coach who admittedly doesn't like the pass and have deomonstrated that you don't know too much about it, you don't desperately start throwing it so early in the game, especially when it's being intercepted and/or falling on the ground, untouched by human hands, and you especially don't throw it on fourth and short yardage situations or deep in your own territory, not when you've got Archie Griffin and a 248-pound fullback named Pete Johnson, who led the nation in touchdowns and who can gain two or three yards tripping ona tuft of grass.

WHAT DID this game prove to us? Certainly not that UCLA was a better team than we had anticipated. Because we also had mentioned in that column that there was no way UCLA would beat Ohio State IF they fumbled like they had all season, and especially against USC. And they didn't, and that ultimately may have been the real reason why they were able to whip Ohio State, Sciarra passing notwithstanding. What it proved was what we had theorized in the first place: That Cal would have beat Ohio State even worse than the Bruins beat them. It also proved to us that the Pac-8 is a superior conference to the Big 10, and that even USC would have handled Ohio State, and maybe even Stanford and Washington, on their good days. Hell, let's try San Jose State, too.

A COUPLE of side observations: Al Derogatis and Curt Gowdy — especially Gowdy — were just terrible. Gowdy, especially, was derelict in his duty. He was more interested in his little boring sidelights than he was in informing the audience about such unimportant things like what down it was, how many yards there were to go for first down, why a penalty was called, etc. which, we thought, is what he was there for, being a play-by-play announcer.

Derogatis was especially guilty of switching praise, as the tide of the game was turning. For example, when Ohio State was running through the Bruins in the first half, they were "great, the most awesome offense in the country," even though Ohio State finished nowhere near the Top 10 in total offense.

When, on the other hand, UCLA's offensive forward wall — which, in the end, might have been the real difference — started chewing up Ohio State's "awesome defense," the UCLA became awesome, while Ohio State, we guess, was chopped liver. It could have been the first time in TV history that musical chairs was played with bandwagons.

Overheard in a crowd of Shriners at the Fairmont Hotel:

"I'm from Illinois, so I suppose I shouldn't say this, but I was so damned glad to see Ohio State get whipped. I feel sorry for the kids, but I can't stand that Woody Hayes."

"Don't feel guilty. My sister-in-law went all through school with Woody Hayes, and she says he was a flaming jerk even in high school. Nobody liked him."

IF YOU'RE READY for a little baseball, the official major league defensive statistics were recently published, and they revealed some interesting facts. Such as Johnny Bench didn't have one passed ball in 121 games as a catcher. Only Oakland's Larry Haney and Boston's Carlton Fisk could match that, but they played in just 43 and 72 games, respectively.

For the second time in three years, Chris Speier led NL shortstops in fielding average (in fact, he led the major leagues) with a .982. He made only 12 errors, by far the fewest of any regular NL shortstop.

TAG END: Now you know what every major league baseball team will be looking for in a trade in a few years, and what they'll be willing to trade. "Topps" bubble gum names outstanding minor league players monthly. We recently surveyed their 54 picks from 1975, and found only one catcher on the list, but there were 11 first basemen.

DC Basketball League Underway

Sixty-five boys basketball teams opened the Daly City Recreation Division's boys basketball league Jan. 3.

Eighth Grade

The Olm Wildcats opened the Eighth Grade Western Division season with a win over the B.Y.A. Warriors 42-24. Larry Chirella bagged 10 points along with Tim Jones's 9 which helped the Wildcats stay on top all the way.

St. Andrews displayed excellent team effort in all respects as they overpowered the Spirit of 76ers 50-9. Scoring for the Scots was widely distributed among many players as they pulled together well for the win.

The Eighth Grade Eastern Division saw the P.A.L. Jets defeat OLM Whites 54-13, as Stuart Ramirez hit 10 points and teammates Udel Arcayena and Adrian Dorton each scored six points. Phil DeSousa let OLM with six points.

SAL also scored over 50 points as they beat OLM Reds 52-36. Balanced scoring by Mike Bigham 16 points and Alex Jenkins 14 points led SAL, while Bob Arata tallied 12 for OLM.

BYA Bullets went to the hoop for 53 points to defeat St. Andrews 53-26. Gary Alimagno scored a game high of 20 points and Steve Hatler hit eight for St. Andrews.

The only close game of the day was St. Andrews defeating Holy Angels 32-22. Keith Bernard led St. Andrews with eight points, and Robert Siguenza hit five points for Holy Angels.

Play on the Seventh Grade Western Division level saw O.L.M. outlast the B.Y.A Reds 34-29. Spearheading O.L.M.'s offensive effort was Pat McGee with 15 points. High for the Red's was Vincent Isom with 11. St. Andrews edged out B.Y.A. 39-26 by relying on good team effort both offensively and defensively. Ward Donnelly chipped in six for the Scots while Andre Williams netted 10 for B.Y.A.

In other action, the P.A.L. Lobos handily downed O.L.P.H. by a margin of 37-5. Daron Jones, Alan Mordokowicz, Rco Cadiz and Bob Perruquest each contributed six points to the victory.

In the Seventh Grade Eastern Division Holy Angels defeated the BYA Warriors, in the opener 21-14. John Allomcher led the Angels with seven points.

St. Andrew Grey were able to edge OLM Reds by one point 29-28. St. Andrews led by as many as 10 points but OLM put forth a great fourth quarter effort but could only close the gap to one. Tom Daly and Marcus Kinbey led the Greys with six points each.

St. Thomas More put 39 points on the board to easily defeat OLM Whites 39-11. The height of St. Thomas More dominated both ends of the court as center Tom Grider scored 18 points while teammates Bob Powers and Larry Hayden added nine and four points, respectively.

Celtics Win in DC Rec

The Celtics, with "Crusader" Rene Mariluch popping for 20 points, outlasted the Sorry Six, 40-26, to remain one game ahead of the pack in the under-6-foot Eastern Division of the three-man Hunch League sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Division.

Gary Bender added 10 points for the Celtics cause while Chris Skeen scored 12 for the Sorry Six.

Don Theuner tallied 24 and Rob Ward 19 as the Rogues dealt the Pickers their first loss with a 54-50 overtime victory. The lead changed hands more than a dozen times before Ward stole a pass and scored to clinch the win. Bob Boyd and Jim O'Donnell were the big guns for the Pickers with 22 and 20.

Vince Ergas scored 23 to lead the Team to a 41-26 victory over the Doakers to break into the win column. Steve Arvanites scored for the Doakers.

The Rookies beat the Gunners because of a lack of ammunition on the part of the Gunners.

In the Western Division, the Challengers edged the Helmets 40-32 as Tom Borg and Mike Massoni teamed up to lead the way. Borg scored 17 and Massoni 14 for the winners while Gus Milon burned the nets for 18 for the losers.

Greg Hansen scored 18 in leading the Wild Turkeys to a 41-25 victory over the Raider Rowdies. Mike Simon once again led the Rowdies with 17 points.

The minutemen and No Scores scored forfeited wins.

The Wild Turkeys outshot the Pulp Pirates 40-31 in the Open Division. Ed Cooper scored 16 and Greg Hansen 12 for the Turkeys while Greg Gorman tallied 18 for the Pirates.

Muff Malispina, Mike Ciapponi and Lou Catelli each tallied 10 in leading the Warriors to a 40-11 victory over the No Stars. Ron Davidowski scored 6 for the losers.

Pete Van Der Vorst tallied 25 to take the night's "top point scorer" in leading the Animals to a 40-26 victory over the Butterfingers. Doug Gray led the losers with 14 points.

Rams Drop Challenger

By JERRY LITTRELL
Times Correspondent

Twice being forced out of game plan situations proved too much for Jefferson High to overcome Monday as Westmoor's Rams took a surprisingly easy 69-52 basketball victory, their 37th straight in North Peninsula League play.

Westmoor's road to a third straight NPL round-robin title was doubly smoothed Monday — South San Francisco upset Serramonte, another contender 63-50. In other games Oceana tipped El Camino 44-42 and Terra Nova edged Half Moon Bay 45-43. Surprising SSF remained in a tie for first with the Rams.

Jefferson set out to play an aggressive man-to-man defense against Westmoor, but that ploy failed when the Indians were whistled for 24 fouls. Westmoor went to the foul line 29 times to only nine for the losers, now 2-1.

Then as the Rams were pulling ahead in the second half the Indians, who were attempting to work inside the Ram zone defense earlier, were forced to fire away outside with only minimal success.

After a sloppy first quarter the Rams were up 17-13 on a questionable three-point play at the buzzer. Jefferson contended, apparently with some justification, that the buzzer had sounded before Danny Williams' layin but the officials let the play and free throw stand.

Westmoor used that little bit of momentum and the fact that Jeff center Ron Sylvia and forward Randolph Singleton were laboring with three fouls each to up the margin to 36-23 on Jerry McNeil's layin with 1:25 remaining.

The quick-handed Rams flicked away numerous Jeff passes and led by as many as 21 points late in the third period. Singleton opened the final period with three quick unanswered buckets, signalling Jeff's last charge — one which brought the Indians to within 10 on two occasions but never closer.

Greg Curtis and Mark Navarro's rebounding assistance to McNeil were again the key factors for Westmoor, now 3-0.

SSF 63, Serramonte 50

For the eighth straight game the South City Warriors shot over 50 per cent from the floor. They gained their third straight league victory.

Serramonte tried to zone the Warriors in the opening period, but accurate outside shooting forced the Regents to quickly abandon that defensive decision.

South City led by as many as 10 in the final period but a late-game rally brought Serramonte to within three. SSF's Joe Monnot, the league's leading scorer going into the game, came through with nine last quarter points, five from the free throw line, to keep the warriors in front.

Oceana 44, El Camino 42

Oceana shook off its week-long doldrums in the second half Monday night. Camino had led by as many as 13 in the first half, but the Shark bench, combined with Colt turnovers, was Camino's undoing.

The score was tied seven times in the final quarter, the final time when Rick Boardman came off the bench to hit a free throw making it 42-all with 1:16 remaining.

Roy Huff swished through a 10-footer with 35 seconds remaining to put the winning margin on the board, but it was the excellent second-half play of sub forward Jim Kearney that was decisive. Kearney hit 12 points and controlled the inside game for Oceana, now 1-2.

Terra Nova 45, Half Moon Bay 43

Mike Hong's four straight free throws in the final two minutes and a fast-break bucket by Tom Peterson with 25 seconds left gave Terra Nova its first win of the NPL season.

Hong, in the game when both starting guards fouled out, hit his final two free throws with 40 seconds left in the game. A stolen inbound pass and layin by Rick Borgess tied it at 43-all for TN.

After Peterson's bucket the Cougars (0-3) worked for the final shot but it bounced off the rim and went out of bounds at the buzzer.

In other MPL matches, Burlingame beat Mills 57-16 and Capuchino stopped San Mateo 39-21.

The Falcons had four pins in what was termed an "MPL showdown" with the Knights. Jerad Fournet pinned his man in 145's and Mark Sexton won a superior decision in 154's to lead Crestmoor to victory.

Burlingame's Doug Nakamoto won a hard fought 7-1 decision in 112's to highlight the Panthers win. Mike Grodner looked good for Mills with a 25-4 triumph in 133's.

Capuchino won the first six matches over San Mateo, rolling up a 21-0 lead.

Bulldogs Beat SF

For a while Friday night it appeared College of San Mateo's basketball title hopes would be resting in the Golden Gate Conference cellar.

But the Bulldogs (now 1-1) erased a nine-point deficit in the final nine minutes to defeat City College of San Francisco, 69-60, in the first CSM home game in more than a month.

JC Cage Roundup

Menlo Squeezes by MPC

Menlo College was the only county basketball team to win in Coast or Camino Norte Conference play Saturday night and, at that, it took the Oaks an overtime period to dispose of visiting Monterey Peninsula, 69-65.

Menlo remains tied for the Coast Conference lead with Hartnell at 2-0 as the Panthers took a 72-58 victory at defending champion Skyline (now 0-2).

Canada continued to find the going tough in the Camino Norte, dropping to 0-3 with a 95-69 defeat from Strong Merritt (now 2-1).

Menlo had apparent control of MPC at 44-35 with 15 minutes left in the game. But the Lobos came back to tie it at 48-48 with 7:47 left and it remained a two point game the rest of the way.

Menlo had a 53-52 lead with 25 seconds left when Mike Arburn was fouled and made one of the charities for a 54-52 Oak advantage. However Tom Sandman's turnaround jumper in the key with eight seconds to play sent it into overtime. Larry Neal's 20-foot attempt for Menlo missing at the buzzer.

The Oaks took immediate control in the extra period, however, with Hillsdale grad Mike Stockwell and Larry Neal each hitting four points. Walt Bremond's two free throws with 56 seconds put Menlo up by seven at 66-59 and it was all over.

Neal took game scoring honors with 18 points.

Hartnell took a 34-28 halftime lead at Skyline and pulled away in the second half despite the 28-point output by Trojan guard Frank Denucci.

Skyline hosts MPC Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. while Menlo entertains Gavilan (0-1).

Canada stayed with Merritt through the first half, trailing only 37-34 at midgame. But the visiting Thunderbirds made 20 of 37 from the field in the second half to run away. Colt Tim Burgess took game honors with 25 points, however.

Next Canada hosts Solano (also 0-3) Wednesday at 8 p.m.

San Bruno to Dedicate 12 Historic Sites

The San Bruno Bicentennial Committee plans to erect "markers" in 12 locations throughout the city that hold some historic significance.

Committee Chairwoman Loretta Currie said this week that the city engineering department will begin installing the redwood markers sometime in late February.

A bicentennial subcommittee, chaired by Chamber of Commerce Manager Gerald Chandler, selected the following sites for recognition:

- The Tanforan Park Shopping Center, site of the old Tanforan Park Race Track.
- The corner of Sneath Lane and Cherry Ave- nue, where the Sneath Dairy Farm once was located.
- Two locations on the 600 block of San Mateo Avenue, where the city's first library and the Crystal Springs water flume were located.
- The volunteer firemen's hall on San Mateo Avenue, site of the first city fire station.
- Near the corner of San Bruno Avenue and El Camino Real, where the old tin schoolhouse once was located. The schoolhouse was used as a city hall until 1953, when the present city hall was built.
- In front of the American Legion Hall on San Mateo Avenue, where the San Bruno Hotel and railroad station once were located. The San Bruno station was the first stop for trains traveling south from San Francisco.
- In front of 345 El Camino Real, site of a restaurant, bar and stagecoach stop known as Uncle Tom's Cabin.
- The corner of El Camino Real and San Mateo Avenue, where the State Highway Department formally signed a contract for construction of El Camino Real.
- In front of Edgemont and Northbrae schools, the first two public schools to open in San Bruno.
- On the 400 block of San Mateo Avenue, where a town meeting place, known as Green Hall, once was located.

Mrs. Currie said that at each of the 12 locations a certificate explaining the historic significance of the site will be encased in plastic and mounted on a five-foot redwood pole.

The bicentennial committee also has scheduled for late March or early April an "old-fashioned day in the park," as part of its planned bicentennial activities.

Arts and crafts booths are expected to be set up at City Park and both the Crestmoor and Capuchino High School bands are expected to perform.

The last two weeks of this month, the bicentennial committee plans to involve local elementary school students in a tree planting ceremony.

Students will plant small groves of trees on the school grounds of Crestmoor, Parkside and Engvall to commemorate the nation's 200th birthday.

A bicentennial essay contest also will be conducted in the elementary schools. All San Bruno pre-high school students are eligible to enter the contest and to write on the theme, "The American — Past and Present."

All essays must be submitted by Feb. 18. Awards will be given March 5 to contest winners by San Bruno Park School District Supt. William Jennings.

Juveniles Arrested in SSF Shooting Spree

A shooting spree in a South San Francisco neighborhood on Dec. 29 has led to the arrest of six juveniles from Fairfield, according to police.

Officer Fred Carelli said the youths allegedly were retaliating after a fight occurred with a resident of that neighborhood the day before.

Residents of the street near Terrace Drive told police the shots came from a silver-colored car moving at a high rate of speed.

No residents were injured although the shots penetrated windows of several homes, police said.

Police said they learned that a youth from Fairfield, had fought with a local resident on the front yard of a Francisco Drive home.

Aided by the car description and license number provided by a witness to the shooting spree, Det. Dave Haskins and Carelli arrested three juveniles in Fairfield on New Year's Day and made three additional arrests on Jan. 2.

They said in their report they had learned that the youth who had argued with the South San Franciscan earlier had returned to Fairfield, gathered together five friends in two cars, and returned to South San Francisco when the shooting occurred.

One gun, Carelli said, was thrown into a pond in Fairfield and two scuba divers from the South San Francisco police department recovered the weapon Jan. 3.

The local investigation also cleared up numerous burglaries in Fairfield in which guns were stolen, Carelli said.

The youths are being held in Hillcrest Juvenile Hall

Airport Noise Session

By GEORGE GOLDING

Two dozen people, including three reporters, gathered in the upstairs meeting room of a Serramonte furniture store last week for a "town meeting" on airport noise.

Key speaker was San Mateo County Supervisor John Ward, who echoed a number of long-standing citizen complaints while explaining this county government's role in attempting to modify San Francisco's airport behavior.

Ward said San Francisco has a long history of being insensitive to the needs of San Mateo County cities surrounding the airport.

"They'd be more sensitive if they got the noise," commented one woman from the Fairmont subdivision of Pacifica.

Ward said a joint powers agreement to work out a master plan for airport land use is ready for signing, but he admitted that most airport land uses already are decided and have been for years.

Meetings between representatives of San Mateo County and San Francisco County to discuss airport problems were begun within the past year, he said, and will continue.

Ward said he feels the sessions will be productive in improving understanding and communications between the two jurisdictions.

Sylvia Gregory, coordinator for the Airport Impact Reduction Force, called visitors' attention to the anti-noise and anti-pollution information available. She invited complaintants to attend the monthly Sound Abatement Center meetings at the airport and provided a list for telephoning complaints between meetings.

Speakers from the Fairmont area of Pacifica, a residential subdivision along the Skyline ridge, complained that even their own City Council will not take formal action for them against the airport.

One homeowner complained that "when weather is good the planes fly out over our homes; when it is bad they fly in from the ocean over our homes."

Several speakers suggested action to enforce a curfew on night operations from about midnight to 6 a.m.

Speakers noted that such a curfew has been enacted at San Diego within the past month and even more recently in Los Angeles.

There was no airport representative at the meeting, but at a session of this county's Airport Land Use Committee later, Airport Assistant Deputy Director Dale Fearn reported that those curfews have been declared illegal and improper by the federal government.

Crowd Is Noisy, 9 Held

Nine persons, six of them juveniles, were arrested by San Bruno police Friday night on charges failing to disperse when ordered to do so by a police officer.

The authorities in San Bruno said a large crowd, using the clubhouse of The Palace apartments on 1125 Cherry Ave., allegedly was being loud and unruly. Some assertedly were intoxicated.

Two policemen, Paul Shepard and Garr Nielsen, responded initially to investigate the complaints. The officers ordered the crowd to disperse. It did not and the officers started to make arrests. They got one person into their patrol car, but the crowd allegedly attempted to remove him.

At that point, the officers called for assistance and a policeman said 13 additional policemen were dispatched. What they found, the spokesman said, was "push and shove kind of thing" — no one was hurt.

Six juveniles were arrested and released to the custody of their parents.

Held in the Daly City facility were Mike Ryan, 18, 332 Seaside, Pacifica; Daniel Hartman, 19, 241 Lake Drive, San Bruno, and Carl Hartman, 24, 1700 El Camino Real, South San Francisco.

'Reasonable Conditions' Urged

A pending lawsuit against the developers of South San Francisco condominiums probably will not have much affect on an application to expand that development.

At a Planning Commission study session Thursday, City Atty. John Noonan said the commission can't base a denial of the latest projects on conditions of buildings outside the West Park area.

The lawsuit has been filed on behalf of Westborough condominium owners outside the area in which the newest condominiums are proposed.

The applicant, Norpen Development Co., represented by Henry Richman, wants to build 20 condominiums at Greendale and Galway streets.

The Planning Commission is expected to take final action Tuesday on a parcel map and use permit for the project.

But Deborah Carson, West Park Homeowner's Improvement Association president, asked the commission in a letter Dec. 8 to consider what she alleged were problems with the developers in the past including:

• The pending lawsuit, which alleges defects and acts of bad faith by Norpen.

• Building defects which homeowners say were reported but went unheeded in West Park 1A until individual residents organized and contemplated legal action.

• Placing West Park 1A covenants, conditions and restrictions without approval of residents.

• Failure to enforce the convenants, conditions and restrictions.

Mrs. Carson said the homeowners' intention is not to stop additional development, but to establish conditions which may prevent further problems.

Noonan told the commissioners they have the right to impose reasonable conditions based on city ordinances.

"You can't penalize any permitee for any past action that may be complained of," Noonan said.

A list of 15 special conditions and 29 standard conditions already had been recommended by City Planner David Hale on the use permit.

"I believe the solution is something that you must arrive at based on all the things before you," said Mrs. Carson.

"It appears the builder has not established a track record that is necessary in light of a planned community development," she added.

Mrs. Carson, in a letter, made several recommendations for solving the problem, including a special subcommittee of Westborough homeowners to review the conditions with the city planning staff and to make suggestions for tightening the conditions if necessary.

She also suggested more thorough building inspection during development. The city staff assured her that could be done.

"When the city building inspector gives a stamp of approval, it implies that the building is suitable and inhabital," Mrs. Carson said. "They are finding out they are not."

Richman said that the covenants and restrictions have been enforced and that they are better than those of the original landowner, Callan Brothers.

He said the developers will allow the homeowners to form their own architectural control committees when the last subdivision is sold.

He added that at hearings and study sessions, the satisfied majority of the residents never appear to speak out.

The majority, he said, are satisfied.

The developer did agree to an improved tar and gravel roofing and steeper slope on the new condominiums, a condition which will be added to the recommendations.

Drinking Habits Cause Concern

"Now that the holidays are over and you have had time to reflect on your drinking habits or those of someone dear to you, perhaps you are deeply concerned."

The woman speaking is concerned. She is Mrs. Gloria Kusichs, coordinator of the San Mateo County Council of the National Council on Alcoholism and director of the Alcohol Information Center, 231 Second Ave., San Mateo.

"The disease of alcoholism strikes one out of every 10 people," she says, "but need not progress if some action is taken by the person with the drinking problem, or a family member.

"This is a disease which can be arrested, and the Alcohol Information Center is available to answer any questions you might have.

"Our services are free and confidential, but the longer you wait, the more difficult the problem becomes," Mrs. Kusichs notes.

Cities Look to Cut Costs With Self-Insurance

North San Mateo County city officials are concerned that their municipal liability insurance might increase as much as malpractice insurance did during the past year and are beginning to take steps to avoid having to pay big premium increases.

The North County Council of Cities Thursday night voted unanimously to allow Burlingame City Atty. Jerry Coleman to devise a plan for all North County cities to participate in a self-insurance program.

San Bruno City Manager Gerald Minford advised the Council of Cities that it can expect "exceedingly high insurance premiums over the next few years," and suggested that it ought to begin thinking about self-insurance.

"We have to start looking at alternatives," Minford warned. "If we start studying now, at least we will know what alternatives are available before the ax falls on us."

San Mateo Councilman Jack Murray suggested the council also request that the Board of Supervisors join in the discussion of self-insurance.

South San Francisco Councilman Leo Padreddii urged the cities to examine self-insurance for liability coverage. He noted South San Francisco has provided its employes with a city-financed dental plan which it found less expensive than dental insurance company premiums.

Minford already is planning for the years ahead in San Bruno, studying ways of establishing a self-insurance program in his city.

Liability insurance alone cost San Bruno some $185,000 in 1975. Minford has estimated that the premiums may increase by 50 to 100 per cent this coming year.

He is, therefore, studying the possibility of having the city insure itself by investing premiums it would have paid to insurance companies. When claims would have to be paid, the city would pay them itself.

To mitigate the risk involved in such a venture, it is Minford's plan that the city carry insurance for claims that exceed a certain limit.

Minford's plan is not an innovation. Some Southern California cities have insured themselves for years. And San Mateo this past year started a self-insurance program.

Councilman John Murray said the self-insurance program has been "very effective so far," although he acknowledged that he could not come up with an exact figure on how much San Mateo has saved, since the program is only in its first year.

Murray said San Mateo pays about $1 million per year for insurance. All that money previously went to insurance companies. This past year, much of that money was invested by the city.

Deciduous Plants Need Pruning

Gardening

By IVA NEWMAN

Almost every type of deciduous plant from small shrub to tree needs to be pruned during its leafless or dormant state. Some, like the ornamental Chinese pistacia, may need only a protruding branch shortened while others, like the rose and the peach which bear their flowers and fruits only on new wood, will need to be relieved of one third to one half of last year's wood prduction.

When we first started to grow roses in this area all we had to guide us were books written by Eastern writers. They all advocated cutting every cane back to two or three "eyes" above the bud union. Our rose garden, pruned to within one foot of the soil was visited by an eastern American Rose Scoiety official and highly praised for "the beautiful pruning job." It was about that time that we observed that the plants we hadn't had time to prune hard produced better blooms on longer stems than those pruned according to the books.

Now we know that roses in the temperate, mild winter areas, such as we enjoy on the Peninsula, never go completely dormant so drastic pruning is too much of a shock to the plants. Now, experienced rosarians keep their plants in top production by removing only one third to one half of the previous year's growth. They have also learned that there are some real no-nos in rose pruning. Never leave crossing canes in the middle of a plant as these prevent good air circulation through the plant that may invite mildew. Never cut into a "basal" shoot unless forced to. Basal shoots have a habit of dying back, sometimes clear to the bud union when cut. Never leave a stump on the bud union. Stumps invite insect pests and dieback. Get the bud union smooth even if you have to use a wood chisel and a hammer. Never cut higher above an eye on a cane than one quarter inch and make the cut on a slant with the high side above the eye. We would add one more no-no and this one is: never use dirty or dull pruning shears. Dirty and dull shears cause a ragged cut that invites dieback. Dip the shears frequently in wood alcohol or a weak solution of clorox (2 tablespoons to a gallon of water) and wipe dry to get the sap off the cutting blades.

Roses Still Blooming

This year, our very mild, sunny dry winter has kept roses actively growing so many experienced rosarians are clipping all the leaves off the plants to force the plants into dormacy by limiting the nutrients the plant gets. (All fertilizer the plant gets is taken up by the roots and carried to the leaves where it is turned into plant food by the action of the sun on the leaves.) Removing the leaves and burning them in the fireplace or putting them in the garbage can does two things. It lets the pruner see the structure of the plant so unwanted branches can be more easily detected and removed and it prevents the spores of such diseases as black spot, rust and mildew from waiting on the soil to attack the new foliage.

The first step in pruning a rose, regardless of its type, is to remove all the dead and useless wood right down to its source. The second step is to open up the center of the bush by removing all crossing branches so that the plant is vase shaped. This sometimes entails cutting out a fine new lateral cane which is heartbreaking. The next step is the shortening of the good canes left on the plant. This year rosarians are pruning high so that if frost kills or damages new growth the canes can be pruned lower after all danger of frost is over. Keep in mind, when pruning, that no cane will produce a larger growth than it is and no cane smaller than a lead pencil should be left on a plant. This does not apply to such small caned plants as polyanthas and miniatures.

There is only a little difference in the way hybrid teas, grandifloras and floribundas are pruned. Grandifloras, being strong growers make tall plants. Pruning a grandiflora to the height of a hybrid tea may cause the plant to put all its energy into plant production instead of flowers. Floribundas are grown for their masses of blooms so more wood should be left on these plants.

Climbers seem to be the most puzzling type of rose to prune, according to the questions that come from readers. We have three types of climbers. One is a regular climber such as Royal Gold, Sunset and the new All-American, America. Then we have a pillar type. These produce tall canes eight to ten feet tall that flower along their length. In addition, we have climbing sports of bush roses. For some reason certain bush types plants will send out long, strong, canes that will flower along their length the second season after they are produced if the cane is arched vertically. Pillars will flower along the canes if they are allowed to grow perpendicularly.

Climbers must have something to climb against, such as a fence, a wall or a frame. We strongly advise a frame erected six inches to a foot from a wall. If the plant is attached to a fence or wall there is no way a sprayer can be sued on the back side and we found that we just couldn't do a thorough job from the front alone. The frame can be made of pipe, wire or wood but it must be strong. Always allow the climbing canes to grow straight up all through the spring, summer and fall of the year they are producing as they are much too succulent for any type of bending this first year. They will often bloom at the tips this first year. At pruning time early the second year they can be carefully arched but do not force the canes as they are still succulent so are easily broken. Tie the canes to a support as they grow so the wind won't whip them about or break them.

Standards (tree Roses) are just bush varieties budded on a stem so they are purned just like a bush except the pruner can stand erect rather than kneel while working. Standards are more expensive to buy because it takes a year longer to grow them.

Miniatures are pruned like hybrid teas but on a miniature scale. They need smaller pruning shears and careful work. Some rosarians, who grow the miniatures in the garden, rather than in pots, start their pruning by using a regular hedge shear to cut the plant back to the height they wish the plant to be. Then they go in with small shears and cut each cane to an eye and clear out the center of the plant just as they would a hybrid tea.

To see how the above suggestions are carried out, attend one or both of the rose pruning demonstrations being offered free tomorrow at the Peters & Wilson Nursery, East Millbrae Avenue and Rollins Road, Millbrae. The first demonstration will be held at 10 a.m. and the second one at 2 p.m. in the big glasshouse at the nursery. Pruners will be the Consulting Rosarians of the San Mateo County Rose Society.

Senior Lunches

Lunches for senior citizens in San Mateo County are served Monday through Friday at five locations. The meals cost 35 cents for persons aged 60 and older, $1.25 for those under 60.

Transportation may be arranged by contacting officials at the local lunch sites. The meals are served at noon. Here are the lunch locations:

- St. Francis of Assisi Church, 1425 Bay Road, East Palo Alto.
- Fair Oaks Community Center, 2600 Middlefield Road, Redwood City.
- Martin Luther King Rec Center, 725 Monte Diablo Ave., San Mateo.
- Lincoln Rec Center, 901 Brunswick St., Daly City.
- St. Paul's Methodist Church, 500 Miller Ave., South San Francisco.

Here is the menu for the week of Jan. 12-16

- Wednesday — tomato juice, veal patty, peas, rice, banana, milk, coffee or tea.
- Thursday — orange juice, tuna-noodle casserole, broccoli, cottage cheese, beets, rainbow sherbet, milk, coffee or tea.
- Friday — corned beef, cabbage, carrots, mashed potatoes, strawberries, milk, coffee or tea.

Introducing the Centennial Edition of Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia.

The best way to get information is to go to the source.

And that's exactly what Funk & Wagnalls has been doing since 1876, when they began publishing reference books.

Their sources for this new Centennial Edition include hundreds and hundreds of prominent people. Each a recognized authority in his, or her, field of knowledge. Many with Nobel and Pulitzer prizes to their credit. And while they're too numerous to list here, you'll find they're all listed in Volume 1.

The result is a comprehensive, accurate home reference center with over 193,000 indexed subjects. [That's as many subjects as encyclopedias costing hundreds of dollars more contain.]

And each article is written in clear, simple English that gets to the heart of the subject without going over your head.

Try Volume 1 for 49¢. It'll sell you the rest of the set.

To introduce you to Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia, we sell Volume 1 at the special introductory price of 49¢.

So instead of going through a high pressure sales pitch, you just go through Volume 1 and let it convince you to buy the rest of the set a volume or two a week.

That way, you find out if it's the right encyclopedia for your family before you pay for the whole set. And you save two ways. First, because Funk & Wagnalls sells their encyclopedias through supermarkets instead of through salesmen working on commission, there's no high commission to pay. Second, because supermarkets can sell in great volume, Funk & Wagnalls can afford to charge you less per volume.

So stop by the Funk & Wagnalls display in any of our supermarkets and pick up Volume 1. It's one of the smartest purchases you can make these days.

Buy Vols. 2 & 3 and get a free dictionary in the bargain.

You get Funk & Wagnalls' 2-volume Standard Desk Dictionary free when you purchase Vols. 2 and 3 of the Encyclopedia.

Special 50c Discount Offer

For the next two weeks wise shoppers can take advantage of the special 50 cent discount coupon offered by Tanforan Park's Garden Restaurants. The coupon, which is appearing in "Bright Lights" today, is good for 50 cents toward any purchase over one dollar at any of the nine restaurants within the complex after 4 p.m., Monday through Thursday. . . . The very French Le Pinard restaurant on Fourth Avenue, San Mateo, is now open for both lunch and dinner. Once you try one of Chef Lucien Vigney's French specialties, you'll be a Le Pinard regular. . . . Much credit for the growth of Pacifica's scenic coastside should be given to Nick Gust, and especially his father Charles, for sensing this growth potential a number of years ago. The Gust family's thriving restaurants, Nick's, The Moonraker, and Captain Charles, are situated on the shoreline of Rockaway Beach, where more things are yet to come. . . . It's a well-deserved vacation for Peter Bovenberg, manager of The Castaway, Coyote Point, who is taking in the sights of Europe and enjoying a reunion with his brother.

VERSATILE PERFORMER

Mickey Frizzell, who is usually billed as a "One Man Band," will appear in a one-night concert at the Bit of England, Burlingame, on Sunday evening, Jan. 18.

Tableside Cooking Phil Lehr's Specialty

PLANNING THE KALLAH

Members of Peninsula Temple Sholom Sisterhood who are joining forces to present their annual Kallah Jan. 27 include (from left) Judy Kay, Janice Katz, Frances Berger and Sylvia Bearman. Congregations from throughout the Bay Area have been invited to the event which will include a panel discussion on "The Evolution of Jewish Woman — Legal, Sociological and Literary Perspectives."

Jewish Women Set Kallah

Congregations from throughout the Bay Area have received invitations from Peninsula Temple Sholom Sisterhood to attend the group's annual Kallah Jan. 27 at the temple, 1655 Sebastian Drive, Burlingame.

Kallah, which means friendship and study, is being observed this year with discussion groups on the subject, "The Evolution of the Jewish Woman — Legal, Sociological and Literary Perspectives."

Three panelists will be participating in the event. They are Jacqueline Mintz, MA, comparative literature, a teacher at UC Berkeley and a doctoral candidate, whose topic will be "The Jewish Woman in Literature"; Nanette Stahl, MA, and Ph.D., Hebrew literature, who is working on a project in law library at UC School of Law, whose subject will be "The Woman in Jewish Law From Biblical Times to Present"; and Florence Lewis, BA, English Literature, who is currently leading discussion groups at Temple Beth El in Berkeley. The latter's talk will focus on "Changing Images of the Jewish Woman."

The program, which will begin at 9:30 a.m., will include luncheon at noon. Members and their guests are welcome to attend, and may make reservations by writing the Sisterhood in care of the temple or telephoning Florence Glatt of Millbrae.

Paramedic Program Seen

By BOB HEMINGWAY

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors Thursday approved the concept of a countywide paramedic program.

A hearing has been scheduled for later this month to determine the method of providing such service.

The action came as the board voted to accept a $250,135 grant from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation to institute a centralized Emergency Medical Services (EMS) communications system.

The new system initially will provide for a two-channel operation — a "red" channel for the simultaneous dispatch of ambulances and notification of local fire and police jurisdictions, and a "blue" channel primarily for direct ambulance-to-hospital communications.

County Manager M.D. Tarshes said there is not sufficient funding in the grant for a "green" channel for hospital-to-hospital communications, as recommended in the Comprehensive Health Planning Council's EMS plan for the county.

However, the board's action directs the county Emergency Medical Services administrator, who will be appointed under the new plan, to seek additional funding sources for implementation of the "green" channel.

With Thursday's action, the board has adopted all but the paramedic portion of the EMS plan which was prepared by the CHPC's Emergency Medical Care Committee and financed by a $313,200 grant from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation.

The public hearing on the paramedic program, for which ambulance companies and fire departments are vying, is scheduled before the board Jan. 27 at 2:30 p.m. in the Hall of Justice, Redwood City.

Tarshes informed the board that the annual costs of providing the centralized emergency communications system after the equipment and installation costs are paid will increase the county commitment by $9,048 a year, to $89,048.

San Carlos Fire Chief Richard Bosted told the board he couldn't see the priority for ambulance-to-hospital communications because the amount of care provided by ambulance attendants is limited by law.

"It will ony be a nice-to-have thing," he asserted.

George E. Nichols, an ambulance company employe, countered that the system is "very important" to communicate vital life signs of a patient while the ambulance is en route to a hospital in order that the emergency room staff can know what to expect and prepare accordingly.

He was supported by Dr. Dennis Franklin of Millbrae and by Dr. Mike Eliastam, director of emergency medical services for Stanford University.

Dr. Eliastam said direct communication is "tremendously important" to avoid misunderstanding. There are some areas in the country, he stated, where hospital personnel know an ambulance is coming only when the siren is heard.

Franklin cited the possibility of mistakes when communications between an ambulance and a hospital are relayed by a third person.

Food Stamp Control Plan

More stringent internal procedures have been instituted to prevent any future embezzlement of food stamps from the Economic Opportunity Commission.

This was reported to the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors Tuesday by Edward R. Becks, executive director of the EOC.

Board Chairman William H. Royer had requested a report on controls instituted since the theft of $35,368 worth of food stamps from the EOC in January, 1974.

Becks noted in his report that it was determined that the EOC was responsible for the loss.

An agreement was made between the EOC, which handles distribution of food stamps for the Department of Health and Welfare, and the department to offset the loss by subtracting the service fee for the period covering the first seven months of 1974 from the balance.

- The daily balance sheet has been redesigned to allow for comments and is now prepared in duplicate.
- Requests for shipment of food stamps are now prepared in writing and in duplicate, allowing for a cross reference on the receipt voucher, the teller's transmittal and the request for shipment forms.
- An operations manual has been written to insure standardized operation.
- Any inaccuracy found on the balance sheet is corrected and a memo written describing the changes.

District Atty. Keith C. Sorenson informed the board that there was a suspicion of the person who committed the stamp theft, but there was not enough evidence to prosecute. The suspected employe is no longer with the EOC, he said.

Becks reported that four major changes in operations have been instituted:

Three Announce For Fassler's Seat

By BOB HEMINGWAY

Three candidates are officially in the running for the Fifth Supervisorial District seat on the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors only one day after incumbent Jean Fassler announced she would not seek re-election in the June primary.

Two others currently are in the "maybe" category.

Announcing their candidacies Wednesday were:

Fred Lyon, 39, of El Granada, an attorney and an activist in political reform and environmental issues;

Earl Crockett, 36, of Loma Mar, a financial analyst working with the Governmental Research Council and spokesman for South Coastside residents seeking a solution to water problems and opposing the proposed outdoor education facility near Memorial Park; and McRobert Stewart, 48, Daly City councilman and former mayor, who announced some time ago that he intended to seek election to the board. Stewart, a lumber company manager, is a member of the County Local Agency Formation Commission.

Giving some thought to entering the race are:

Herbert G. Petersen, a former Redwood City councilman and unsuccessful candidate for election to the Fourth Supervisorial District seat in 1972. Petersen, a vice-president of E. H. Bean Co., a rigging and heavy equipment firm, is now a resident of La Honda. He said that he has "not ruled out" the prospect of becoming a candidate.

Edward D. Vallerga, an attorney and a member of the Belmont City Council for 10 years. Vallerga, who now resides on the west slope of Skyline Boulevard, said he is "taking a good long look" at the possibility of running for the board seat.

Lyon said Wednesday in announcing his candidacy that he is "appalled" at the prospect of Stewart becoming a supervisor "because he represents the tradition in local government which has become outdated.

"People are discovering that local government, including county government, is where the action really takes place," he stated. "The old-kind politicians, such as Stewart, are not prepared philosophically to handle that.

"Local government is going to become more and more prominent. It needs a free approach, new blood."

Lyon said he advocates a "complete reorganization" of county government under an agency system where only five to seven agency heads would be reporting to the county manager, as compared to the present system where as many as 60 department heads and committee executives report to the manager.

Lyon contends that there is a "kind of level of fat" between the county employes doing the work and those doing the supervision.

"We need a way to get the ideas up through the middle management level to the policy-making level where the decision-making takes place," he said.

Lyon stated that he favors "open government" with full public hearings before policy decisions are made.

"When citizens get involved government works a little better," he said. "The people will demand more functions of government be administered locally."

Lyon predicted that the competition for the Fifth District seat will boil down to "a race between myself and McRobert Stewart — opposite philosophies."

Crockett said that there are "two basic reasons" he has decided to enter the race.

First, he contends, the Coastside has been without effective representation and secondly there is a "great need" of someone with solid financial analysis and management experience at the supervisorial level.

Crockett made it clear that he is "not taking a whack at Jean" in his assertion concerning representation.

"The South Coast and much of the Mid-Coast lack the normal municipal structure which give local representation," he said. "Until recently, there has been apathy in participation by people because of dissatisfaction with local (county) government."

His involvement last year as a Coastside spokesman has resulted in a "surge in citizen participation because of the times and because there is someone to speak for them," Crockett stated.

The candidate asserted that "great strides" have been made in self-determination for Coastside residents, citing the opposition to the outdoor education facility, the formation and funding of the South Coast Water Committee to solve the health problems in Pescadero and the application to the Board of Supervisors for formation of a permanent Citizens Advisory Committee for the South Coast, leading to interest on the part of the board to form a similar committee for the Mid-coastside.

Crockett said that his participation the past four months in financial analysis of government programs in the county has led to his conviction of the need for a financial expert on the board.

"With the present economic situation government has to begin immediately to institute the practical financial controls that have been used for years in business," he stated.

Stewart said he believes that his "basic background of being involved in government is an asset in itself."

He stated that he will "go along" with Board Chairman William H. Royer's assertion that the county's economic situation is not the greatest.

"Finances will be a key issue for anyone in the race," Stewart commented.

He said that he will campaign on a platform of encouraging commercial and economic growth without damage to the environment.

"We can't continue the level of county services without a better tax base and more relationship to that tax base," Stewart stated.

"Commercial and industrial development are very important and I believe will be my basic issues."

Choral Festival

The San Mateo County American Revolution Bicentennial Committee has given recognition and approval for the proposed County-Wide Choral Festival of American Music (1776-1976) inaugurated by Dr. Marietta Tassos, founder and director of the San Mateo County Choral Society.

Meeting at Dr. Tassos' home in Millbrae to discuss plans for the Choral Festival were directors and representatives of the various groups to be involved in this concert. They included Leo and Sylvia Bardes of the San Mateo College Community Orchestra, Roy and Doreen Marlow of the South San Francisco Choraliers, Sister Suzanne Toolen of the Mercy High School Music Department in Burlingame, Louise Palmer-Persen of Hillsborough representing the Peninsula Choraliers.

William MacSems, director of the Coastside Chorale and Patricia Hennings, director of the University Women's Chorus were out of town at the time of this meeting but both have expressed interest in joining with the other groups in this Festival. Maria Fitzgibbon, Board Member, represented the Choral Society.

Each organization will present selections of its own under its own director and there will be a combined massed choral cantata plus a choral and orchestral number as a Finale.

Date and place for the Festival will be announced soon, along with other details which are still in the planning stage.

Dental Class Set

Applications for enrollment in Canada College's fall dental and X-ray technology programs will be taken through Feb. 15, John Forsythe, chairman of the life science and health education division, announced today.

Applicants must have completed a course in elementary algebra within the past two years.

Those who have completed basic courses in biological sciences, physical sciences, geometry and typing will be given priority.

Students will work at Sequoia, Chope, Mills Children's and Stanford hospitals and at Kaiser Foundation hospitals in both Redwood City and South San Francisco, as well as at four dental laboratories.

The two-year course leads to an A.A. degree.

Flint Acoustics Good to Soprano

By ROBERT BURMISTER

The San Francisco Symphony worked out its player contract problems in time for only two of last week's scheduled series of four concerts with guest mezzo-soprano Janet Baker. One of the two that proceeded as planned was the Saturday night Flint Center performance — an apparent sell-out.

Flint auditorium is a good place in which to hear the orchestra play — so good in fact that it is where the group has recorded its four releases under conductor Seiji Ozawa. The acoustics of the hall allow for a mellow fullness in the blend of the ensemble even though the special characteristics of individual instruments often lose some of their prominence in the process.

The acoustics of Flint Center were good to Ms. Baker and she, assuredly, was good to them. It was remarkable how she held her own so totally against the full musical weight of the large orchestra. This was true even during the massive instrumentation of Mahler's "Songs of a Wayfarer."

The program began with the Overture to Mozart's late opera "La Clemenza di Tito," "The Clemency of Titus," K. 621, under Maestro Ozawa. The overture has almost the big orchestral sound one associates with the Romantic period composers who followed Mozart by many years. Yet Ozawa mantained an entirely Mozartian style of tjlension in the thematic development and brevity in the harmonic modulations. Mozart didn't scatter his energies and neither did Ozawa.

Ms. Baker's first selection for the evening was the aria "Parto, Parto" ("I'm going, I'm going already") from the same opera. The British born and British trained mezzo gains astonishing power in her vocal production without sacrificing the least modicum of tonal quality in the process. In fact, quite to the contrary, she seems to find her subtlest nuances of expression in a power range that would find most singers exhausting themselves to the limit simply to maintain. When Ms. Baker fills an auditorium with sound, it is a wholly natural affair for both singer and listener, and a nervous strain on neither.

In the Mahler "Songs of a Wayfarer" the same principles of gentle but gargantuan tone production held. Because of the huge orchestra which Mahler employs, including all manner of brass and multiple low stringed instruments, it was impossible not to think of the tale about Richard Strauss in one of his "Salome" rehearsals during which he called out to the conductor to play louder because he could still hear the singer — a fact which he felt inappropriate to that portion of the drama. It is hard to think that any conductor could ever get the better of Ms. Baker even in a contest of sheer volume of sound.

It is the finesse of her musicianship alone, however, which of course ranks Ms. Baker with the great. Her extraordinary power merely allows one to hear her superb artistry clearly.

The concluding Bruckner Symphony No. 7 in E Major utilizes the same sort of huge orchestra which had gone before in the Mahler. Mahler was, in fact, a devoted disciple of Bruckner. It was with the Seventh Symphony that Bruckner, then 60 years of age, began to achieve a little of the recognition and artistic respect which had been denied him previously in his life.

Even in its more somber moments, the Seventh has a pastoral feeling unusual for Bruckner. There is a dance-like quality in much of the music which is at least on the surface out of character for the composer. Ozawa kept all trace of harshness out of the music, even in the brassy Scherzo movement. What was typical of Bruckner and what Ozawa did bring to the surface, was the composer's unending quest for peace in his music and an ultimate simplicity, even though it was arrived at through extremely complex means.

An Editorial

No High-Rise on San Bruno Mountain

The most widely supported petition in the history of Daly City, containing some 4,000 signatures, has been presented to the City Council there in opposition to any development on San Bruno Mountain.

This petition is directed specifically against the huge development proposed by Visitacion Associates, which would construct 7,655 housing units for a projected population of 18,500 people. The development would include 35 buildings ranging from six to 20 stories, built in the "saddle area" on the northern slopes of the mountain, at ground elevations of 685 to 800 feet above sea level.

This proposed Crocker Hills project will soon come before the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors. We are confident that the board will give serious consideration to the Daly City petition, with its extensive support, as well as to the opposing arguments.

Our own position regarding this proposed development, which we have expressed editorially during the past few months, is not that of the Daly City petitioners. While we share their concern for environmental protection of the area, we favor some development on San Bruno Mountain, believing as we do that the area can be developed in a manner compatible with the environment of this region. A project of well-designed buildings of a height compatible with the environment — we submit that the maximum should be three or four stories, and that anything higher would be a perpetual blight — with ample open space would be a valuable addition to the area.

In the forthcoming discussions with the Board of Supervisors, we shall probably again hear the argument that constructing high-rise buildings will tend to produce more jobs and help relieve unemployment. Such an argument is, in our view, irrelevant and unsound. What is suitable for the environment and what is likely to increase employment are separate issues and should be dealt with separately.

Moreover, the argument that building high-rise structures increases the available open space is also, we believe, irrelevant. While high-rise structures do have their place — especially in low-lying areas with no particular environmental distinction — they would be hideous to contemplate on Mt. San Bruno which for generations has been regarded as one of the major natural attractions of the Bay Area. The proposed high-rise concept in the Crocker Hills project would do serious harm to the environment of the area and should be rejected by the Board of Supervisors.

Skyline Classes

Drama 48, a short course in which the plays performed by Stage II at Ashland, Oregon, will be carefully studied is the latest addition to Skyline College's Continuing Education curriculum for the Spring 1976 semester.

This eight week session, which will meet on Tuesday evenings starting Feb. 10 will be instructed by Skyline evening instructor, Janice Beale.

The class will study four plays, Comedy of Errors by William Shakespeare, Devil's Disciple by George Bernard Shaw, The Tavern by George M. Cohan, and Brand by Henrik Ibsen. At the end of the course, the class will travel to Ashland where they will attend three of the plays under study. In addition they will have a guided tour of the theater, talk with the actors, and participate in group discussions. One unit of credit is available through Skyline College.

WORKING CREW
Preparing items for the San Francisco Symphony's benefit Marathon II are (from left) Mrs. James Lowrie, Mrs. Morton Miller and Mrs. Richard Burns. They are all members of the Upper Peninsula League of the San Francisco Symphony Foundation. The sale itself will run from Thursday through Sunday.

Marathon II Benefit

A day on the bay with Helen and Geoff Bromfield of San Mateo and a day in Sacramento with State Senator Arlen Gregorio are two of the premiums that will be available next week during Marathon II.

Marathon II is the Bay Area-wide fund raising campaign for the San Francisco Symphony. This year's event, which will run from Thursday through Sunday, is underwritten by Glendale Federal Savings.

Interested patrons can choose from a wide variety of premiums including the two local outings. Others include a magic show by symphony first violinist Irvin Mautner, lessons in organic gardening from percussionist Anthony Cirone and a violin recital by the orchestra's concertmaster Stuart Canin.

Marathon II will be aired over KQED-FM from 7 p.m. to midnight and the public is invited to listen and to call in to select not only premiums but musical numbers.

The premiums and the music are being offered in exchange for donations to the symphony. They are listed in a catalogue which is available from the symphony office in the War Memorial Veterans Building on Van Ness Avenue in San Francisco.

FUND RAISING

For the second year the San Francisco Symphony has announced a four-day fund-raising event to be called Marathon II. It will take place Jan. 15-18 and will be aired over KQED-FM Radio daily from 7 a.m. until midnight in the quest for contributions. The event will be underwritten by Glendale Federal Savings. The listener will phone his request to the Marathon Center at 431-7010 for nearly 700 premiums, donated services, gifts, special events, or merchandise which is listed in a widely distributed catalog which may be obtained at offices of Glendale Federal. Seen making plans for the event are Mrs. Murray H. Freedman of Daly City with George Cory, composer of "I Left My Heart in San Francisco."
